Democratic Harmony.
Aylesworth Plunges In.
Science and Crime.
Playing at War.

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HEARST RANCH, SAN SIMEON, Cal., April 15.

DEMOCRACY'S CAMPAIGN starts, as usual, with a fight. One conspicuous candidate tells another under what conditions the first will take off his coat and knock the other Democrat into a cocked hat.

Candidates agree that prohibition is a big question. Each has an opinion different from that of all the others, except cautious candidates that have no opinion, and answer, "I love my country," when asked what they think about beer. This situation does not hurt the feelings of Herbert Hoover, only Republican candidate.

SOME DEMOCRATS denounce as "un-American" other candidates that would "set the masses against the classes." The others retort:

"It is the masses' turn, and we do not need classes, anyhow. Look where they have landed us."

Democrats, in their love for each other, recall a story that Mr. Edward Cantor, young actor, has told to Horace Lorimer, young editor.

Mr. Cantor took Mrs. Cantor to see Clark Gable, and says Cantor, when Gable took Joan Crawford in his arms:

"My wife, who watched the picture closely said 'phooey.' A few minutes later, at another passionate scene, she said 'phooey' again.

"Well, I thought, here, at last is a woman who sees nothing in Gable. Toward the end of the picture, when I heard her say phooey, a third time, I turned to the star's defense. "Ida," I protested, 'that's Clark Gable. Why do you say phooey?' she snapped back. 'Keep quiet, I was thinking of you.'"

M. H. AYLESWORTH, head of the National Broadcasting, undertakes, as additional work, the presidency of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, which makes moving pictures.

Mr. Aylesworth must have the courage that goes with youth for plunging into moving pictures now is like undertaking to swim Niagara Rapids, only, the movies are rougher.

DAVID SARNOFF, president of the Radio Corporation of America, announcing that Mr. Aylesworth would replace Mr. Brown, as head of R. K. O., says broadcasting is so closely associated with entertainment, in general, that combining pictures and broadcasting management in one capable executive will work for efficiency and economy.

Mr. Aylesworth's remarkable success as broadcasting manager, achieved in five years, proves that there are still opportunities for young men. The difficulty sometimes, is to find young men that combine intelligence with "no objection to hard work."

Mr. Aylesworth's associates in R. K. O. will include, in addition to David Sarnoff, Owen D. Young and Gerard Swope, of General Electric, an interesting battery of big guns.

MAKING OF big guns and armor plate have long competed, armor plate men trying to develop steel that no bullet can penetrate, gunmakers, perfecting guns able to penetrate anything.

A similar conflict for supremacy exists now between crime and science, with crime, as yet, far ahead.

Science's latest hope, announced by the Westinghouse Company of Pittsburgh, is a device of tubes and cells that will photograph a burglar, sounding an alarm at the police station, and gassing the burglar, as well, besides turning on bright lights, the moment he crosses an "invisible ray."

Burglars will cut off the invisible ray, as they now cut telephones wires and poison watch dogs. The only way to discourage crime is to make it more dangerous and less profitable. Our present conditions make it highly profitable, and not dangerous.

In New York, for instance, a criminal in a holdup, in the absence of police, knows that he is the only armed man present. Think of that advantage.

ONE HUNDRED and four surface ships, including ten battleships, have completed maneuvers off this coast, the roar of the big guns rattling dishes in Pasadena, back of Los Angeles.

Two hundred aircraft were included in the mock warfare, thank Heaven. Had the number been two thousand, it would have been about half enough.

The public, the President, the War and Navy secretaries do not get all the facts concerning war practice.

In recent mock warfare off Hawaii, twenty-five transports, loaded with troops, were supposed to be convoyed by ten fighting ships and attacked by "innumerable aircraft."

Officially it was reported that had the war been real, the loss of men, killed by bombardment on the transports, would have been seven thousand, not a high percentage. Officers on their return told friends that had it been real war, every transport would have been sunk, all on board lost, and many, if not all, the convoying warships would have been sunk, as well.

This country needs the world's biggest fighting air fleet and submarine fleet, and the most highly developed explosives and war gases, not to hurt any one minding his own business, but as a warning to our dear friends across both oceans.

Mrs. Massie to Take Stand in Death Trial

TESTIMONY TO CLIMAX DEFENSE IN SLAYING

Plea Said to Assume Blame, Darrow Indicates; Story Of Attack Given Jury

BULLETIN.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 15. (INS.)—Clarence Darrow, chief of the defense counsel in the Fortescue-Massie trial was stricken with indigestion early today. Recess of one day will be asked by the defense.

International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 15.—(7 a. m., Honolulu time, 12:30 p. m., E. S. T.)—The story of suffering that Lieut. Thomas H. Massie was to resume from the witness stand will be climaxed next week when Chief Defense Counsel Clarence Darrow calls Mrs. Thalia Massie, pretty victim of an attack by five hoodlums, to testify, it was learned today by International News Service.

Lieut. Massie, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue and tow naval men are on trial accused of killing Joseph Kahahawai, asserted ringleader of the men that attacked Mrs. Massie.

MASSIE TESTIFIES

Lieut. Massie has already testified to the horror of the events that followed the assault on Mrs. Massie, and today was expected to recount in full the kidnaping and shooting of Kahahawai, and probably assume the full blame for the "honor slaying."

Darrow said:

"I don't believe the jury will convict anyone after hearing Lieut. Massie tell the rest of his story."

To drive home the case for the defense, however, Mrs. Massie herself was ready to undergo the pitiless glare of publicity for the sake of her mother and husband, and the two naval enlisted men.

All night long crowds waited outside the grayish stone "Hall of the Chiefs" anxious for seats in the tiny courtroom to hear Lieut. Massie conclude, as the defense's first witness, his drmati story.

Under the sharp and insistent prying of Prosecutor Kelley, Darrow has admitted that insanity will form the basis of his defense. Darrow said:

"We expect to raise the question of the sanity of the moving figure in the last part of this tragedy—that is, the one who shot the pistol."

"Emotional insanity" induced in Lieut. Massie's mind by the brutality of the attack would then form the first phase of the defense; "justifiable homicide," by which name the unwritten law is known in the halls of justice, would provide the second and concluding phase in Darrow's master plan to win acquittal for his four clients.

WILL "TELL ALL"

Although Darrow has remained secretive as to the mainspring of his battle plan, he has admitted to International News Service that Lieut. Massie will "tell all," and by that it has been taken to

PAULETTA GETS LIFE FOR 1914 SLAYING

Governor Saves Coverdale Miner From Gallows; Scores Prisoner's Record

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 15.—(AP.)—The death sentence of Frank Pauletta, Coverdale, Pa., miner, for a murder committed 18 years ago, was commuted to life imprisonment today by Gov. Conley.

The Governor said he had given "careful consideration" to pleas for clemency, to protests against clemency and to reports of a special investigation conducted at his direction. He added:

"These do not in my opinion justify clemency to a greater extent."

CRITICISES RECORD

Gov. Conley said that the public generally is laboring "under the false impressions" that Pauletta lived a model life during the period after his escape from the Harrison County Jail in 1914 and that he has resided most of that time in one place. The Governor's statement said that Pauletta had resided only five months at Coverdale, Pa., and that his investigation showed "that he has not lived up to the reputation given him by the press and some of the persons who interceded in his behalf."

Pauletta escaped from jail while awaiting removal to the state penitentiary in 1914 to be hanged for the slaying of Frank Giliberti in a drunken quarrel in the Pinnickinnick mining section of Clarksburg. He was captured in Coverdale last January.

TELLS OF THREATS

Gov. Conley said his investigation showed that since his recent arrest Pauletta has threatened witnesses who testified against him and court officials who par-

FORT SILL, Okla., April 15.—(AP.)—Na-the-Klah, 107-year-old Apache, has been moved from the Kiowa Indian Hospital to make room for those who really are infirm.

Physicians said that, except for failing sight and hearing, she was in excellent health. A first cousin of Geronimo, notorious warrior, Na-the-Klah was brought to Fort Sill many years ago as a prisoner of war.

Hoover Appears Fit, Copeland Declares

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP.)—Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Democratic Senator from New York, said today after a White House consultation that President Hoover appeared "in fine physical condition."

Copeland came to the White House, he said to "look the President over." He reported Mr. Hoover appearing rested, happy and fit.

AIDES OF LINDY AGAIN DECLARE BABY SAFE

Norfolk Go-Betweens State Information Indicates Child Alive and Well

NORFOLK, Va., April 15.—(AP.)—Three Norfolk negotiators for the return of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., announced today through the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock that information furnished them indicated that the kidnaped child is alive and well.

This brief announcement was the only information the three negotiators would add to the statement made by John H. Curtis and Admiral Guy H. Burrage on their return from a trip veiled in secrecy. The dean said:

"To the best of our belief from information furnished us the child is alive and well."

The Curtis-Burrage statement merely announced they had held four conferences with Col. Lindbergh.

Alienists Study Note, Disagree on Kidnapers

By LEIGH MATTESON

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Two of the most eminent alienists in the East, who have studied a copy of the ransom note left in the Lindbergh baby's nursery the night of the kidnaping, vary in their conclusions. One flatly asserted today:

1—That the kidnaping was not a gang job, but was done by a man probably of German descent who possibly is now on parole from some insane asylum.

2—That insane malice, and not money, was the chief reason for the kidnaping.

3—That he probably was accompanied on the kidnaping trip by his deranged wife or some other mentally disordered women who quite probably would prevent any harm coming to the baby.

4—That the ransom negotiations and ransom acceptance and further negotiations are due to the maniac's desire to play with Lindbergh "like a cat with a mouse."

Plan to Balk Ransom Hoax Sought by Lindy

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 15.—(AP.)—The Lindbergh baby hunt developed today into a search for a swindle-proof scheme to get Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., back.

Working secretly again, negotiators did not overlook the possibility that a second ransom attempt might lead to a reptition of the $50,000 hoax in which Col. Lindbergh was mulcted without getting the kidnaped infant.

Col. Lindbergh and his wife appealed last night for secrecy in the attempts to deal with the kidnap gang.

Dr. John F. Condon—the "Jafsie" who, as Lindbergh's emissary, arranged the recent $50,000 payment—made several trips from his Bronx home yesterday.

BASE BLOWN OUT OF NEW OHIO STATE OFFICE BUILDING

KNOWN TOLL IN TRAGEDY REACHES 7

Probe Links Dyna Theft In Columbus Explosion; Seek Victims in Debris

COLUMBUS, O., April 15.—(AP.)—The theory that a bomb explosion was responsible for the loss of seven lives, injuries to more than twoscore, and heavy damage to Ohio's new State Office Building, was uppermost in the minds of state, county and city officials as they launched investigations into the disaster today.

After an inspection of the explosion-torn building, Harry Hake, architect of Cincinnati, said the damage would run over $1,000,000.

Authorities were investigating the theft of 300 pounds of "high powered" dynamite from a powder company near London, O., last week, in the belief it might have been used to bomb the $6,000,000 structure, which was in the final stages of construction. The dynamite, the owners said, contained 16 quarts of T. N. T. to 100 pounds—a total of 48 quarts of T. N. T. which could have been extracted from the sticks.

DEATH LIST GROWS

Meanwhile, the death list was increased to seven today when William Stevenson, 42, Columbus, died of a skull fracture.

Gov. George White intimated he felt a high explosive was used in an effort to destroy the structure when, after naming an official investigating committee, he summoned explosive experts.

After an inspection at the building, Gov. White said he felt sure the explosion was not of gas origin.

The Governor called upon the McClintick-Marshall Company, of Pittsburgh, the steel contractor, to send expert structural engineers here at once to make an examination and determine the damage.

With one or two exceptions, authorities believed the blast was the outcome of a plot to bomb the structure. One of the exceptions was Mayor Henry Worley, of Columbus, who held to the belief that it was caused by a collection of gas.

POLICE TRACE CLUES

State and city fire officials were working on the theory that nitro glycerin or T. N. T. caused the explosion.

As the Governor set his investigation in motion, city police were tracing clues. One was the strange action of an unidentified man, who, a few moments after the blast ripped through the struc-

INSULL, FRIENDS RECEIVERS

CHICAGO, April 15.—(INS.)—Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley today granted an equity receivership for the Middle West Utilities Company, huge Insull holding concern. He appointed Samuel Insull, Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch as receivers.

The receivership, the greatest in American commercial history, was granted on the petition of the Lincoln Printing Company, which cited a claim of $8,000. The court overruled objections by minority security holders, both as to the receivership and to Insull as a receiver.

During the hearing today Attorney W. A. Leopold, appearing for a minority stockholder, said in protest:

"This company is in sufficiently good financial condition to continue business. They have more than $300,000,000 worth of assets. They certainly can pay this bill of $8,000. The purpose of the receivership is to freeze out the stockholders. These men represent big bankers."

TALBOT RELIEF CHECKS MAILED

HARRISBURG, April 15.—(AP.)—The first checks for payments to counties under the Talbot poor relief act appropriation of $10,000,000 today were mailed from the State Treasury.

These checks covered the $1,000,000 due in December. Checks covering the January appropriation of $2,000,000 will be mailed Monday, and the payments for February and March, also totaling $2,000,000 each, will be mailed early next week.

Checks were mailed today for all counties except Lycoming and McKean, the payments to these counties being withheld by the Welfare Department because no address is available at the department to which checks should be mailed.

Find Miner Missing On Yule Trip Dead

DOWNIEVILLE, Cal., April 15.—(AP.)—Last December Hans Butten, 48, a miner, set out from the old Colony mine near here to buy decorations for a Christmas tree.

His body was brought home today, recovered from the snow half a mile from the mine where he had fallen in a blizzard, the Christmas decorations clutched in his hands.

Whitney escaped death with a parachute drop, according to information received by his friends. # SMITH SLATED FOR DELEGATE OVER ROOSEVELT OPPOSITION

TAMMANY CHIEF BACKS FORMER GOVERNOR

Choice Seen as Victory for Al In Warfare With New York's Executive

International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 15.—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith is going to the Democratic national convention as delegate-at-large from New York state, despite the fact that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt raised the question of the "political inadvisability" of such action.

This was definitely determined today by powerful Democratic state leaders in conference shortly before the State Committee was to meet to select 16 delegates-at-large to the national convention.

John F. Curry, Tammany Hall chieftain, is reported to have insisted that former Gov. Smith's name should be on the state for delegate-at-large.

ROOSEVELT WON'T GO

Gov. Roosevelt announced earlier in the day that because he was an active candidate for the presidential nomination he would not be a delegate-at-large. He indicated to the leaders that inasmuch as Smith also was a candidate for the nomination, there was a question whether he should be a delegate.

In some quarters the decision of the Democratic chiefs to make Smith a delegate-at-large, in view of Gov. Roosevelt's feeling in the matter, was regarded as a distinct victory for Smith over Roosevelt.

OTHERS SLATED

The other 15 are:

$50,000 BANK BONDS VANISH

By D. H. ROSENTHAL
Staff Correspondent.

LIGONIER, Pa., April 15.—A statewide search was under way today for the $50,000 of negotiable bonds stolen from the open vault of the Ligonier National Bank while its directors were meeting in an adjoining office.

The theft was discovered Wednesday morning, following the Tuesday night directors' meeting, and, although state police had not been informed of the robbery, an investigation was conducted by the Mellbank Corporation, of which the bank is a subsidiary.

After entering the bank through the front doors, which had been left unlocked to admit bank directors, the robber slipped past the door of the meeting room to take the package from the vault, the doors of which had been opened so that papers could be obtained during the meeting, bank officials explained last night.

Two Men Buried By Cavein Rescued

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP.)—Two water main repairmen who were partly buried by a cave in on the near north side at noon today were rescued without injury by firemen 15 minutes later.

They were Robert O'Neal and Tony Ro[illegible], members of a construction company gang employed to fix the main pipe line in Illinois street east of the Tribune Tower. A passing "L" train dislodged earth and a concrete block upon them.

Barbecue Property Seized After Raid

The Long Run barbecue in the Long Run road, near Olympia Park, was stripped of its furnishings today following a raid last night by prohibition agents who said they confiscated two barrels of beer and a gallon of whisky.

Agents said they arrested Alex Bonocich, alleged proprietor, and Stephen Kasamovich, said to be a waiter there. Furniture and booths were carted away in two trucks, agents said.

Advertising Merits Told to Druggists

Retail druggists of Pittsburgh and adjacent communities heard a note of optimism sounded last night when they met in the William Penn Hotel and were told by R. D. Keim, general sales manager of E. R. Squibb and Sons, that his wholesale firm's volume of business and profits in 1931 exceeded those of 1930. Increased newspaper and national advertising, Keim said, was responsible.

ALICE IN UTILITY LAND — By Quin Hall

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
With Apologies to Lewis Carroll

CHAPTER V.

Alice was beginning to despair of ever finding her way home. The twisting paths either brought her back to a point she had seen before or else they led only into innumerable other paths, equally as rambling.

"I've been walking for hours," said Alice, "and I'm still in the same woods. I wish that I might run into something else. It's very——"

She didn't finish the sentence. She couldn't, because she almost did run into something else. It was a high stone wall built directly across the path.

"Be careful, be careful, you might shake the wall!" someone above her screamed.

Alice looked up. A strange figure was perched precariously at the very top of the wall. Now it is not very dangerous for most of us to sit on a wall, but it must have been for this creature. He seemed to be all head.

Alice was puzzled for a moment. Then she exclaimed:

"I know; you're Humpty Dumpty!"

The head, or rather all of him nodded until Alice was quite afraid that he might fall.

"That is part of my name," he said. "The full name is Humpty Dumpty High-Rate.—And you might have shaken my wall!" he exclaimed, growing excited again.

"But I couldn't have shaken it even if I had bumped into it," Alice said, trying to soothe him.

"But you might have," he complained. "Then where would I be?"

Humpty Dumpty High-Rate had been a lovely Easter egg color at first, but he became as pale as a white leghorn at the mere thought.

"Oh, I see," remarked Alice, "and the king's horses and—"

"Don't mention it, child," he interrupted, "I can't stand popular songs."

This interruption so nettled Alice that there was a long silence while she tried to think of some remark that would not offend him.

Humpty Dumpty finally broke the silence.

"I don't see how you ever got in here. Some one has been very careless. Anyone in my family—that is the Rate family, you know—is always guarded with the greatest care. Yes, yes, the greatest care, so that no one can disturb us, you see."

"But who guards you?"

"First of all," Humpty replied, "we are hedged about with legal guards to keep away competitors. You've no idea how disturbing competitors can be to any one of the Rate family, especially when they are sitting on top of a wall."

"And what else?"

"Then there are other guards, valuation guards who make things so complicated that no one knows where he's at, procedure guards who make it as hard as possible to get by the commissioners who form the last line of defense."

"But why do you have to have so many guards?" Alice asked.

"Someone would be sure to think this wall is too high."

"It's quite a bit too high," she said to herself as she left him to find her way out of the woods.

HITLER TO HIRE LEGAL AID

BERLIN, April 15.—(AP.)—Adolf Hitler announced today that he would retain the best lawyers he could find to contest the legality of the emergency decree dissolving his party's storm troops.

He also will sue, he said, to obtain redress for property seized and personal liberty violated in raids on the storm troop barracks.

DANZIG, Free State of Danzig, April 15.—(AP.)—Anticipating trouble following dissolution of Adolf Hitler's storm troops in Germany, the Danzig Senate today forbade outdoor political parades and mass meetings throughout the Free State, where President Von Hindenburg's decree does not apply.

Cook Book Given Free With Sunday's Paper

Cook books come and cook books go, but the semi-annual cook book issued as a tabloid supplement with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph seems to be the most permanent publication of the kind that comes from any press. Regular readers, particularly housewives, look for it every six months.

With next Sunday's Sun-Telegraph the eighth semi-annual spring and summer book of wholesome, attractive recipes will appear as a special tabloid with your Sunday newspaper.

The many recipes for this edition have been selected with the idea of giving the housewife real assistance in providing good things for the table without an extravagant outlay of money. With the electric refrigerator as one of the modern essentials in the home readers will be interested in finding instructions for the preparation of many kinds of good things iced or frozen, for the table—particularly welcome as the days and the kitchens begin to get uncomfortably warm. Then there are timely instructions to be followed for preserving and canning—when fruits are plenty and inexpensive.

There is a special page on deserts, another on good things for Sunday night suppers and recipes for salads. All in all, this tabloid cook book is designed, not only to help the housewife in the preparation of foods, but also to hold down the cost and at the same time serve a variety of worth-while things to eat.

Turks to Execute 'Love Murder' Girl

WOMAN LEADER UPHOLDS DRY CAUSE

Workers Not 'Paper Dolls,' Declares Mrs. Peabody, Replying to Foe's Charge

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The banner of temperance which has been waving all week from the headquarters of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform was snatched back today by the women's dry organization, when Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, replied to the speech of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin.

On the eve of a constitutional convention of 12,000,000 women whom Mrs. Sabin had called "paper dolls," Mrs. Peabody defended:

"If the women of Mrs. Sabin's group were truly against the saloon, why were they not fighting it in the days before prohibition? They acknowledge now that the old saloon was shocking. Where were they when it was thriving?

NOT 'PAPER DOLLS'

"Our women were out fighting the saloon, doing missionary work, building schools, colleges and hospitals. They are not 'paper dolls' but flesh and blood women of high intelligence. They are the women who do the organization work of the country. Through their hands pass millions of dollars for philanthropic enterprise."

Commenting on Mrs. Sabin's excoriation of a society in which a man like Col. Lindbergh had to resort to 'underworld aid in the search for his kidnaped child, Mrs. Peabody placed the blame on the government's slowness in punishing crime rather than on prohibition. She asserted:

"As a democracy we are a 'noble experiment' which cannot be repealed, but we are failing in government."

Wagner Urges Repeal Of 18th Amendment

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP.)—Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was urged today by Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, before a Senate committee considering a variety of proposals for changing the prohibition laws.

In contrast with yesterday when the spacious majority room of the Senate Office Building was crowded by women spectators, most of them members of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, only a handful listened today.

Wagner said:

"Those daily joining the ranks of the advocates of repeal are those of our citizens who have a care for the habits of their children, who are alarmed at the organized expansion of crime and violence, who are concerned for the dignity of their government, which is openly belittled, and for the supremacy of the law which is flagrantly defied and successfully challenged."

He has introduced a resolution for repeal.

DAVIS, BUTLER CROSS PATHS

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—(AP.)—The campaign itineraries of the two aspirants for the Republican senatorial nomination crossed paths today for the first time since the start of their respective tours. The intersection was Easton.

Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler moved on Easton from Scranton by way of Stroudsburg, where his first speech of the day was scheduled. The incumbent, James J. Davis, was expected at Easton and Bangor today from Altoona.

Senator Davis has been devoting his tour principally to conferences and meetings. Gen. Butler, on the other hand, has been stumping strenuously.

At Scranton, last night, he presented anew his three-point "prosperity program"—increased public works, full payment of the veterans' bonus and increased tariff protection for state industries, particularly anthracite.

Blame for Tax Raise Placed by Johnson on Hoover Moratorium

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—In a thundering denunciation of "petty penny-slashing," Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.), of California, yesterday charged that the Hoover moratorium of last June is responsible for the present necessity for government economy and increased taxes.

Johnson's attack, made before a packed gallery and full chamber, was a four-square assault on the Hoover administration's policy of postponing foreign debts while demanding a balanced budget for this government.

It came in the course of a debate on the resolution by Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tenessee, to cut 10 per cent off the Treasury and Postoffice appropriation bills, as was done with the Interior bill.

The proposal had been bitterly denounced by Senator Ashurst (Dem.), of Arkansas, who characterized the government slashes as "insane."

People Must Pay

Johnson, pounding heavily on his desk, sounded a warning that the $250,000,000 moratorium sponsored by the President will have to be paid by the people in taxes, and said it is directly responsible for the present deplorable state of the Treasury.

He characterized the "economy" wave of Congress as a shibboleth, and said:

"We have become a little intoxicated with our own voices in these two months' talk of economy."

From behind his desk, Johnson said:

"Economy, sir, takes different forms. Economy, sir, in many different phases, is stalking through this chamber and stalking through other parts of the government, the executive departments.

"But economy was not the thought at the beginning of this when a moratorium was granted to foreign governments for their debts to this country.

Gift to Europe

"Economy was in a different guise then, and I venture the prediction that it will be in a different guise in the administration when next June comes, and the period has arrived for another moratorium to be granted. For the granting of one moratorium means the granting of more, and it is the beginning of the end for the debts that were due the United States.

"Throw it away, will we, and have naught to do with it? We will make it up by taking a few men from public building, and having them walk the streets and pound the pavements without work and without food. We will make it up by taking $37,000 from a wee bit of a reclamation project when men and women and children require it.

"We will make it up for what? For what? For our people?

"No, sir. We will make it up for the people beyond the seas and for those who ultimately received the money that thus we give to Europe."

Ata this juncture, Johnson read a recent statement by Bernard Baruch, New York financier, advocating the cancellation of foreign debts in order that the private debts to this country might be paid. He continued:

"What we forget in all this talk of debt cancellation and reduction is that every penny lost in the process has to be made up by American taxpayers. Every dollar of it. Remember that!

"Talk of the terrific fix we are in! Tell us we cannot balance the budget. And then, in the very beginning of the year when the thing is obvious and known, give $250,000,000 to Europe that is paid to international bankers on short-term credit.

"And get ready, as I believe those who are in control of us are getting ready, to give another moratorium of $270,000,000 in the middle of this year, $520,000,000 in all.

Collection Possible

"We could have collected on the $250,000,000 at the end of last year, or the beginning of this year, if we had so desired. We can collect the $270,000,000 which is due in the middle of this year if we desire.

"The only problem now is whether those who are striving for cancellation or revision will be able to prevent that collection.

"On April 5, Britain paid $200,000,000 on the big loan received previously by them from American bankers. It was repaid before it came due. Repaid to whom? Why, repaid, of course, to our masters, Morgan and Company.

"Britain would have paid that debt to us on the first day of January last if we had chosen to insist. And Britain and other countries will pay the debt they owe us, if we desire to insist, in the middle of this year.

"I think that the reduction in salaries of people who have little to live upon today is the cruelest, the wickedest and the meanest thing that could be done by the Congress."

LEGION'S BONUS STAND AGAIN ASSAILED

Bitterness Marks Hearing; Advocates Score 'Doles' Given Big Corporations

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—An atmosphere of bitterness pervaded the House committee's hearing on cash payment of the World War veterans' compensation certificates today.

Members of Congress and spokesmen for veterans' organizations declared Congress had given "doles" to big corporations and now should recognize the just claim of the service men.

Maurice P. McGrath, of Hyattsville, Md., representing the 29th Division, said the legion convention at Detroit was "insulted" by an outsider who appealed to its patriotism and expressed the hope that the legion would bar "outside speakers on controversial subjects." President Hoover addressed that convention and asked it oppose any bonus payments this year.

Most of the members of Congress, including Representatives Condon (Dem.), of Rhode Island; McClintic, Johnson and Hastings, Oklahoma Democrats, advocated inflation through payment of the bonus.

Representative Cochran (Dem.), of Missouri, advocated payment of the bonus by legalizing and taxing beer.

SCENTS DANGER IN STOCK TAX

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP.)—Possible closing of the New York Stock Exchange with danger of "a panic" was pictured before the Senate Finance Committee today by Richard Whitney if the proposed stock transfer tax is imposed.

The president of the New York Stock Exchange said the tax would reduce security transactions almost to the vanishing point.

Protesting it he said the effect not only would be felt on the exchange, but would "devastatingly diminish" the business done in the country. This decrease, he added, would more than halve the $75,000,000 of revenue the House estimated the tax would bring.

He appeared after Senator Tydings (Dem.), of Maryland, had assailed the tax on oil imports carried in the bill.

Tydings said the tax would result in a $300,000,000 a year burden on American industry, motorists, farmers and home owners by raising oil and gasoline prices.

Extra-Fare Trains Cut to 1 by P. R. R.

Extra fares are to be eliminated on all Pennsylvania railroad through trains except the Broadway Limited in the [illegible] schedules, April 24, according to an announcement by D. M. Sheaffer, chief of passenger transportation. That the extra fares have proved a handicap to the railroads in view of competition of highway and airplane traffic is the conclusion reached. Revenues from the extra fares amounted last year to nearly $2,000,000 and this will have to be saved through economies or increased business to make the change profitable.

Vote on Dry Law Favored, Hoover Told

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP.)—After a two-month tour of the United States, E. C. Sams, president of the J. C. Penney Company, said today he had informed President Hoover he believed there was a growing sentiment in favor of a referendum upon the Eighteenth Amendment.

Sams said he had conferred with 700 businessmen from coast to coast. He informed the President also that there was a more optimistic economic outlook.

Films Help Prevent Crime, Briton Says

LONDON, April 15.—(AP.)—Motion pictures are doing more to prevent crime than to encourage its commission, Sir Herbert Samuel, the home secretary, said today in reviewing criminal statistics in the House of Commons.

Since the war, crimes in Great Britain have nearly doubled, he said, and the most serious problem is the criminal between 25 and 30 who had little discipline in youth because the war occupied all the attention of his parents.

5,000 STRIKERS JEER STATE MILITIAMEN AT OHIO MINE

ension High as Workers Burn Fiery Cross on Top Of Hill; Shots Harmless

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

CADIZ, O., April 15.—A ery cross before dawn today eralded a mass protest of ore than 5,000 striking min- rs at Somers mine of the oodyear Tire and Rubber ompany against the mobiliza- ion of National Guardsmen ere as the result of yesterday's ioting, in which one man was illed and 30 others injured.

Five hours later eight revolver hots fired from a hilltop over- ooking the troop guarded mine ad signalled the end of a bois- erous but otherwise harmless demonstration put on for the edi- ication of the soldier guards.

ACE SOLDIER GUNS

There were no serious disorders, o arrests and no casualties. The strikers, gathered together from ll parts of Southern Ohio, pa- raded before machine guns and rustling rifles.

They carried flags and clubs. Some of them were armed. They voiced their indignation in lusty voices and their spokesmen pre- sented their demands in no un- certain terms:

"We want recognition of our union, and an approved wage agreement."

The county road between Adena and Duncanwood, which passes in front of the mine, was choked solidly with men and machines for nearly five miles.

The strikers massed before the main entrance gate to the mine property and with stars and stripes waving at the head of their procession, they alternately cheered and booed the guards.

SOLDIERS WITHDRAW

Two machine guns were set up at the main gate and a guard of a dozen marching infantrymen, their bandoliers and rifles bristling, were stationed along the property facing the road. The boos of the crowd prompted orders from Maj. Sam Cole, in charge of the detachment, to order this guard removed, but the machine guns were kept in position and a squad of men armed with gas bombs, riot guns and automatic rifles was moved up in their place.

The leaders represented themselves as official spokesmen for the United Mine Workers of America, recently reorganized into local unions. Representatives from nearly 50 locals were said to have been in the crowd.

MILITIA MASSED

Troops, numbering 356 men and officers, detrained at Cadiz at midnight after being hurriedly mustered into service on orders of Gov. George White yesterday. There was a battalion of infantry, consisting of three companies of riflemen and one machine gun company. There was a medical detachment from Cleveland, a gas squad from Columbus and a truck unit also from Columbus. The infantry battalion, the 145th, came in from Akron.

While the troops were arriving in Cadiz, a handful of mine guards and a special observation detail of National Guard officers was being terrorized at the Somers mine, situated in a lonesome valley about five miles from here. All telephone wires leading into the mining community were disabled.

PHONE LINES CUT

Frantically, the guards, entrenched behind tipple, fan house, air shaft and mine entry, tried to call for reinforcements at Cadiz. Finding their telephone communication cut off, they settled down to arranging barricades in case of attack. Intermittent rifle fire kept them on the alert, but their attackers did not show themselves.

The guards did not return the fire.

About 3 o'clock a cross burst into flame about 100 yards from the mine entry. Expectantly, the guards scattered about the mine property congregated their force at this point, but nothing untoward occurred.

'Too Young to Die' Plea Fails Prisoner

WALLA WALLA, Wash., April 15.—(INS.)—Insisting to the end that he was 17 years old and "too young to die," Walter Dubuc was hanged here early today with Harold Carpenter, 30. It was Washington state's first double execution.

Dubuc had insisted since his conviction that he would not have been 18 until next September, but prison officials believed he was at least 19. He was the youngest prisoner ever condemned to hang in the state. The two men were convicted of he murder of Peter Jacobsen, aged recluse.

Railroader Burned Repairing Engine

Harry Christman, 50, of 5031 Dearborn street, was severely burned while repairing a locomotive in the Twenty-eighth street roundhouse of the Pennsylvania Railroad shortly before noon today.

Christman, a machinist's helper, was using a blow torch on the engine's steam dome, when his clothing caught fire. He was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital.

U. S. MISSION WORKER SLAIN

WARSAW, April 15.—(AP.)—The body of Edna Drall Mott, an American Baptist missionary, was found in her apartment here today. The throat had been slashed. Police said they suspected she had been killed by religious fanatics.

She came to Warsaw a year ago and conducted her missionary work from her apartment in a slum district.

The wound in her throat was deep and was caused, the officials said, by a sharp knife or a razor.

Several weeks ago two children in the neighborhood were found dead under similar circumstances, but police were unable to find any trace of the slayers.

FINED AS VOTE SIGN POSTER

Another arrest for the posting of political signs during the present campaign was reported today when Steven Stefanzak, 22, of 510 Handler street, South Side, was arraigned in Mt. Washington Police Court. He was fined $5 by Magistrate John J. Sweeney on a charge of violating a city ordinance.

Stefanzak was arrested in Steuben street, West End, while posting signs announcing the candidacy of Edward C. Kroll for the Legislature in the Sixth District, police said. A number of signs which were taken from Stefanzak were returned to him after he had been warned not to post any signs on poles.

ECONOMIC QUIZ ADVOCATED BY MRS. OWEN

Congresswoman Says Better Citizenship Will Aid Solve Business Problems

Educators hold an important responsibility in preparing the world to avoid a future crisis such as is being faced today and the solution is the broad study of national and international economics, according to Congresswoman Ruth Bryan Owen, who was here today to address the Western Pennsylvania Education Conference.

The conference officially opened last night at a dinner in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. Sessions were being held today and will continue through Saturday. Many prominent eductors will be heard. Congresswoman Owen was to speak during this afternoon's session in Syria Mosque.

BETTER CITIZENS URGED

Preparation of better citizens who will understand problems of the nation and the world as they relate to economic matters and how the relationship between countries has an important bearing on our own existence was cited by Mrs. Owen in an interview at the Hotel Schenley shortly after her arrival today. She said:

"The young people should be impressed with the necessity of being better citizens. It is necessary that the common reference to the government of 'they' should be changed to 'we.' The youth in our high schools will be better citizens tomorrow if taught our country fits into a pattern, a part of the world neighborhood: that the matter of exports and trade relations are important to our existence.

"With a better understanding by the future citizens, a repitition of the present crisis would not be so serious because the nation would be government-conscious and know what adjustments are necessary. Today we are stumbling into the problems and must search for the solutions."

DR. SIEG SPEAKS

Individuality was the keynote of an address by Dr. L. P. Sieg, dean of the school of education, University of Pittsburgh, given at last night's meeting, which was also annual gathering of the Alumni Association of the school of education.

Dr. Seig told his listeners that teachers had been wrapped up in the machine of education so long that "we've forgotten what it's all about." He said that Americans are the greatest fad followers in the world, and warned:

"We won't solve our own problems by adopting another's plans. It's the thought behind the plan that accomplishes the good."

Dr. Fred J. Kelly, of the United States Office of Education, felt that schools must see what is wrong with society "which doesn't seem to be getting any better in spite of all the education."

URGES CO-OPERATION

Dr. Chester A. Buckner, acting chairman of the conference, spoke in place of Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, who was kept away on account of illness.

Dr. Frank M. Gatto, assistant director of curriculum study and research in Pittsburgh schools, was elected president of the alumni association. Miss Catherine McKinney, of Dormont, was elected secretary.

Speakers at today's session of the education conference were to include Dr. Francis B. Haas, president of the Pennsylvania State Education Association; Dr. LeRoy A. King, University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. S. A. Courtis, University of Michigan.

DUQUESNE CO.'S RATES BEFORE P. S. C. SOON

Domestic Costs Stressed As Commission Launches Quiz; Valuations Studied

HARRISBURG, April 15.—(AP.)—The Public Service Commission has inaugurated its recently ordered investigation of electric utility rates in Pennsylvania with particular attention to domestic rates.

At a preliminary meeting, Commissioners Samuel Walker and George W. Woodruff considered group, geographical locations and individual companies, and will begin their conferences with heads of the companies as soon as the commission's technical bureaus have completed studies of the book values and earning power of the companies.

The companies whose rate structures will be investigated first are the Duquesne Light Company, West Penn Power Company, Philadelphia Electric Company, Scranton Electric Company, Pennsylvania Electric Company, of Johnstown, and the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, as affecting the Harrisburg and Lancaster areas. Other companies will be included as soon as the commission's bureaus have prepared preliminary reports on their values and earnings.

The book value of the company will be compiled by the commission's bureaus and allowances will be made for depreciation and working capital. Then the reported earnings will be rated in proportion to the book valuation. If the earnings are found to be in excess of 7 per cent, negotiations will be instituted to effect a rate reduction, particularly in the domestic classification.

The investigation was directed by the commission at an executive meeting April 5.

GAS COMPANY DEFENDS RATES

Commissioner S. Ray Shelby, of the Public Service Commission, yesterday heard witnesses for the Union Heat and Light Company in defense of the company's action in charging consumers of Grove City, Sandy Lake, Stoneboro and Volant 65 cents net per 1,000 cubic feet for gas. The protestants assert the rate is illegal and unjust.

Figures were submitted showing production cost of the company's plant and lines, less depreciation, totals $723,344. The company maintained the figures justified paying the existing rates and average dividends of 19 per cent to stockholders, during the last nine years.

The capital stock of the company as of the date of the filing of the protest against the rates was $120,900, with only $97,200 issued. The complainants charge that since the complaint was filed, the company has declared a stock dividend of 113 per cent.

The company furnished Commissioner Shelby with a detailed report of costs. Shelby adjourned the case until a later date.

Fined for Begging To Buy 'Numbers'

Andy Novak, 36, of the Pennington Hotel, who police say "panhandled" downtown pedestrians for money and bought "numbers" tickets instead of food, was fined $10 or 30 days in the county jail today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. Novak was arrested late yesterday by Patrolman Charles Williams, who accused him of using abusive language when his plea for money was refused. Police said they found "numbers" tickets in his possession.

OHIO STATE OFFICE BUILDING: THE EXTERIOR AFTER THE EXPLOSION DEEP IN ITS HEART

ture, ran around one corner of the building, threw a brick through the window of a parked automobile, and fled.

The gas theory was further discredited when it became known that all ventilating fans in the building were operating under test late yesterday when the explosion, centering in the southwest basement, blew out a large section of the west wall and devastated a large part of the interior.

City firemen resumed their digging into the tons of debris in the basement in an effort to ascertain if any bodies were buried in the avalanche of marble, concrete and plaster which tumbled down from the upper floors. One man was known to be missing, and while it is believed he was buried in the debris, one policeman said he thought the body had been blown from the building into the nearby Scioto River.

WRECKS BUILDING

The explosion, late yesterday, demolished the central interior portion of the building from the basement to the eleventh floor, and tore away most of one of its sides.

At first, the explosion was laid to accumulated sewer gas in the basement. Later, however, officials, including T. S. Brindle, state superintendent of public works, theorized high explosives were the cause, and that it was an act of sabotage.

Brindle's theory was strengthened by a statement from H. E. Nold, head of the department of mines at Ohio State University, that:

"It would have been impossible for enough gas to collect in the building without being detected."

126 IN BUILDING

Investigators also pointed out that the focal point of the explosion appeared to have been immediately beneath a room occupied by Charles Martin, superintendent of construction for Harry F. Hake, of Cincinnati, the architect. Martin's duties included the handling of labor disputes.

There were 126 men at work, applying finishing touches of construction inside the building, when the structure was shattered.

Great marble slabs were tossed into the air, ponderous metal doors were wrenched from their hinges and tons of concrete and twisted steel were knocked loose by the force of the blast.

LIST OF DEAD

In addition to Stevenson, the known dead were W. B. Ryder, 57, superintendent of the Alabama Marble Company; Donald T. Chesney, 40, decorator for the Rambush Company, New York; William Dokken, 32, Detroit, a bronze worker; Clyde R. Neal, 35, Columbus, electrician; Frank Baker, Columbus, plumber, and C. P. Carter, 30, of Nashville, Tenn., who died several hours later of internal injuries.

The building, located on the western edge of the business district, is 360 feet long, 80 feet wide and 13 stories high, with walls of white Georgia marble. Dedicatory ceremonies had been set tentatively for May.

During construction, which consumed almost two years, labor fights among workers who questioned the right of various building trade organizations to do various jobs, were frequent.

SURVIVORS' STORIES

Lurid pictures of the disaster were painted by survivors. They said the explosion tore upward and outward, lifting into the air a section of the west wall 25 feet high and 200 feet long.

Homer Richter, a police photographer, who was near when the explosion occurred, said:

"Clouds of thick white dust poured from almost every opening on the lower floors.

"Then I heard men screaming and crying for help. As the smoke cleared, I saw men lying in the gutters. Whether they ran there, or were carried by the blast, I don't know. They were bleeding, and some had most of their clothing burned away."

CROWDS AT SCENE

Walter Karshner, a special officer at the building, was one of the first to escape. He staggered from a narrow doorway on the north side of the building. He gasped:

"They are trapped—hundreds of 'em—"

Then he collapsed.

Straining against the rope barriers in front of the building, wildly excited spectators marked an inscription carved into the marble above the entrance:

"May the lightning of heaven which scathes, and the whirlwind and storm which prostrate the works of man pass by and spare this house erected by a mighty people and consecrated to social and constitutional government."

2 HELD AFTER KIDNAPING IN M'KEESPORT

Liquor Racket Linked as Man Tells of Abduction In Auto at Point of Gun

Kidnaping of a McKeesport resident by members of an alleged Turtle Creek Valley liquor ring was bared today at a hearing in McKeesport Police Court when one man was held for court as an accessory to kidnaping and on other charges, and a second man was ordered held for investigation.

The man who was kidnaped, Walter Blair of 317 Twenty-sixth street, McKeesport, testified that Tony Skilt, alias Lomparco of 320 Twenty-fifth street, jammed a gun in his back while Blair was examining a garage in Twenty-fifth street in which liquor was stored. Blair said:

"Skilt made me go into his house and he called a telephone number in the Valley exchange. About 15 minutes later another man came in and he put me in a machine and took me somewhere in the virinity of Turtle Creek. That was Wednesday night, and they did not bring me back here until yesterday."

Police said they raided the garage on Blair's complaint and confiscated moonshine. Later they arrested Giuseppi Lepinto, of Lenhart, in whose automobile police said Blair was spirited away. Skilt was held for court for accessory to kidnaping, pointing firearms and violation of the state liquor laws.

Lepinto, in whose possession police said they found fake liquor stamps, was held for investigation. County Detective James Reddington is seeking another man, described as the kidnaper.

EXTRA GUARDS AT OHIO PRISON

COLUMBUS, O., April 15.—(AP.)—Extra guards, including city radio cruiser crews, were on duty at Ohio Penitentiary last night and today for some unannounced reason. City and penitentiary officials would not discuss the special precaution.

It was generally believed that Warden Preston E. Thomas called on the city for guard aid when he learned something was "brewing" within the walls.

Extra guards had not been on duty at Ohio Penitentiary since Easter Monday two years ago, when a fire killed 320 convicts who were locked in their cells. The prison is within a few blocks of Ohio's new state office building, in which a half dozen men met death in a terific explosion of mysterious origin late yesterday.

SEEK 3 BALLOT INDICTMENTS

Indictment of two former policemen and a ward politician was forecast today as the grand jury began work on a presentment in their investigation of alleged registration frauds in the Thirty-first Ward.

District Attorney A. T. Park indicated that no indictments would be asked for the 23 labor camp men and others who are alleged to have registered last fall after falsely swearing they had lost tax receipts. Those who induced the men, many of them Negroes, to perpetrate the fraud will be the only ones prosecuted he hinted.

Indications were that a presentment would be handed down late today.

MRS. MASSIE TO TAKE STAND IN TRIAL

Husband to Admit Blame, Darrow Indicates; Story Of Attack Given Jury

near [illegible] 25-year-old Naval officer would admit that his was the finger that pulled the trigger.

The statement touches off the explosive climax of the trial. The officer was a statement Kahahawai was to have made after he was killed and taken to the home of Mrs. Fortescue, it was learned by International News Service.

Just what the native said must remain a matter of conjecture, but it was strongly reported to have been a confession of guilt.

By a confession in open court Lieut. Massie would seek to clear Mrs. Fortescue and the two Naval men of all responsibility.

Under the Hawaiian law, if one defendant is held to be insane and therefore not guilty of less murder, then the others are automatically freed.

EXPERTS STUDY DEFENDANT

Two noted defense psychiatrists Drs. Edward Huntington Williams and Thomas J. Orbison, have studied Lieut. Massie intently during the progress of the trial and are reported to be ready to take the stand.

If they do the state will muster experts of its own to cross-examine their testimony.

The state is convinced that the sailor Deacon Jones shot Kahahawai, but is unable to prove its contention. It is certain that Kelley will subject Lieut. Massie to a grueling cross-examination.

The young prosecutor openly scoffed at Darrow's plans with the words:

"Insanity defense"—Poppycock."

If there was master legal stagecraft on the part of Kelley in making his last witness Mrs. Esther Anita, the mother of Kahahawai, then it was super-brilliance on the part of Darrow to place Lieut. Massie immediately on the stand.

Through a mist of tears the native woman identified the clothes that her son wore on the day he met his death. Abruptly the state rested its case. The effect on the jury was obvious.

Darrow fought strenuously to bar the emotional, dark-skinned woman from court, but in vain.

But if it seemed that the grizzled veteran lost ground when Mrs. Anita testified, he retrieved it immediately when he waived his opening speech to the jury and said in a calm, level voice:

"Lieut. Thomas H. Massie."

The young officer took the stand, and, fighting back the tears, told his story of anguish.

He had no sooner started when Kelley interrupted to ask if Darrow intended to go into the attack case and establish a defense of insanity. The state has contended from the start that the attack on Mrs. Massie and the killing of Kahahawai are unrelated events.

Darrow solemnly replied:

"We expect to raise the question of insanity."

Kelley then heatedly inquired again if the insanity plea itself was to be relied upon, and Darrow admitted that it was. Over Kelley's objections, Lieut. Massie went on with his story.

WOMEN IN TEARS

Several of the white women in the court cried softly as the officer unfolded the hideous details of his wife's experiences, and the eyes of Mrs. Fortescue dimmed with moisture but she greeted her son-in-law with a proud smile when he stepped from the witness box at the adjournment of court.

His hands calmly folded on his lap, the young Naval lieutenant told the story he "can never forget"—the tropical nightmare that occurred on September 12, 1931 when his young wife was brutally attacked.

Darrow made no attempt to interrupt him. Massie said:

"Lieut. and Mrs. Brownson, Lieut. and Mrs. Brown, my wife, and myself went to the Alawai Inn to dance.

"There was some drinking. Someone told me the last dance was to be played at midnight, but I couldn't find Thalia—my wife. I couldn't find her anywhere. I called my home. My wife answered. She said:

"SOMETHING TERRIBLE"

"'Come home, please. Something terrible has happened.'

"I went home at once. My wife told me some men had attacked her. She was cut and bruised, and she kept saying:

"'Let me die. Let me die.'

"When the police came she said her jaw hurt and we took her to the hospital. I went to the police station where I called my superior officers. They came to town and took us home. I put Thalia to bed, but she couldn't sleep. She kept asking:

"'Why didn't they kill me?'

"I wired Mrs. Fortescue. The next day the doctor ordered my wife to the hospital, saying she suffered from terrible injuries.

"Then the police brought in four men, and one was Kahahawai. After she identified them, I leaned over the bed and she whispered:

"'These are the men that attacked me.'

TELLS OF SCREAMS

"The doctors who examined Thalia said her jaw was badly fractured and that it would probably be necessary to extract a tooth. I went to the operating room with her and they gave her gas. The surgeon began cutting the gum around her tooth. She screamed. They gave her ether and performed the operation.

"She cried all day. The day after, I went to the police station to learn about these fellows. One, I found, had previously been convicted of attack. Nearly all had criminal records of some sort.

"I asked Thalia why she left the Alawai Inn. She said she wanted some air and intended to walk only a few blocks, but a car drew up, and two men jumped out and forced her into it. There were three others in it.

"'I offered them money, but they beat me,' she said.

"I asked which ones beat her. She said Kahahawai hit her most. Then she told me of the car stopping and of the attack. She said she screamed and begged for mercy, but the only replies were repeated blows in the face.

WIFE'S NIGHTMARES

"A while after the attack my wife woke up one night and screamed:

"'Don't let him get me! Don't let him get me!'

"I arose and tried to calm her, and said that no one was there. But she said:

"'Yes, there was! Kahahawai was there.'

"My friends urged me to return to my work, but if I happened to be still for a few minutes the whole thing came back to me, and I couldn't see anything but that crushed face I saw last September. I couldn't accomplish much at the Naval base because the whole thing preyed on my mind. I lost my appetite, and I couldn't seem to get it out of my mind.

"One night after the attack I heard footsteps outside the house. I got a gun and circled the house, but found no one. My wife often complained of hearing footsteps outside the window.

"The fear of disease also preyed on my mind, and I couldn't think of anything else."

TRANSIT GROUP PLANS REPORT ON SUBWAY

Brown-Snodgrass Proposal Said to Be Disapproved As Cost Study Goes On

The City Transit Commission has formed a definite policy on the subway and expects to have a written report for City Council Tuesday, according to George S. Davison, chairman.

From unofficial sources, it is hinted the commission will disapprove the plan suggested by Norman F. Brown, former director of the County Department of Public Works, and Edward Snodgrass, Jr.

Members of the Transit Commission today were studying figures presented by Winters Haydock, engineer. They will meet again tomorrow morning to discuss the report.

LATEST PROPOSAL

The Transit Commission's latest subway plan was a loop under Smithfield street, Seventh avenue, Liberty avenue, Ferry street and Third avenue. The Brown-Snodgrass plan would build a double-track subway under Grant street, Liberty avenue, Ferry and Water streets.

Objections to the Brown-Snodgrass plan in the commission, according to reports, are based on difficulties it is said would arise in operating the larger loop. The Pittsburgh Railways Company does not want a large loop because of increased operating expense, it was said.

The costs, as estimated by Brown, and recently checked by Charles M. Reppert, chief city engineer, were close to the Transit Commission's figures, it was reported.

ECONOMIES CITED

Large decreases in the cost of construction and the economies of working under the wider streets make the lower costs possible, it is said. Although relatively more costly, the Transit Commission is said to be still committed to the smaller loop.

That the Public Service Commission must be consulted on any agreement the city may make with the railways company to operate the subway is asserted by persons well informed on utility affairs. City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt said yesterday that he will investigate the extent to which the plans for the subway come under the authority of the commission.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 15.—(INS)—Two men were arrested here early today charged with attacking young girls. The cases were not related.

Those jailed were Henry Peters, 25, and Pablo Gonsales, 45, a Porto Rican. The arrests came as the Fortescue-Massie trial, which served to focus attention on island conditions, approached its climax.

The Donahoe Label Protects Your Table

THOUSANDS had the Wrong Idea

They didn't know that Donahoe's sell the finest coffees in America AT THE LOWEST PRICES. Many still believe that the higher the price the better the coffee . . . That's just plain nonsense . . . the highest price does not mean the best coffee.

Old man Barnum was right when he said that many people just love to be fooled—and say—high-sounding phrases and fancy prices can fool most anybody when it comes to coffee.

Today people are concerned about the freshness and the quality of coffee—but they want to buy it on the same basis as any other food: butter, eggs, meats, etc.—AT THE MARKET PRICE!

Donahoe's coffees are the most talked about and the most popular coffees sold in Pittsburgh today—because they are QUALITY coffees that you can buy AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

The reason we are advertising Donahoe's Coffees so extensively is because thousands didn't believe that there could be any coffee sold at such low prices and still be REAL Quality Coffee. We want to convince those thousands by inducing them to TRY Donahoe's Coffee.

Tens of thousands prefer Donahoe's Coffee to all others, regardless of price—a millionaire couldn't buy finer coffee than Donahoe's Coffee—therefore, the highest price does not mean the best coffee.

During the past two weeks all Coffee Sales records were broken in Donahoe's stores.

Thousands more are now enjoying these fine coffees, and to you—who have never tasted them—we say:

Buy Donahoe's coffee today or tomorrow—give it a trial, if it does not please you better than any other you've ever tasted, bring back the unused portion and Donahoe's will cheerfully refund your money.

a prominent Pittsburgher said:

"I never dreamed that Donahoe's Coffees were so high in quality. I always thought it was necessary to pay 50c a pound, or more, for good coffee. Your coffee convinced me that I had the wrong idea — I'm for Donahoe's coffee now—fancy prices won't ever fool me again."

BURNS, FAMOUS DETECTIVE, DIES AT 72

Heart Attack Ends Career Of Great Sleuth, Who Never Lost Large Case

SARASOTA, Fla., April 15.—(AP.)—William J. Burns, the detective, is dead.

The 72 year old founder of the Burns Detective Agency was the victim of a heart attack at his St. Armand's Key winter home here last night. A few hours earlier, apparently in the best of health, he had assisted his family in the entertainment of guests.

He was stricken shortly after they left and died without regaining consciousness.

Friends said funeral services would be held here and the body probably placed in a vault for removal to New York for burial later in the spring. The widow and four children survive.

William John Burns' career was the realization of a boyhood dream to be a great detective. He gave up the merchant tailor trade of his father in 1885 to enter the business of crime detection.

The first big case of the detective's career was the solution of the Ohio tally sheets fraud by which a group sought to place a senator in office. He entered the secret service when 28 years old and in 1896 gained national recognition by solving the "Costa Rican" case in which a group of Central American revolutionists tried to discredit their country and raise funds by counterfeiting in the United States.

Counterfeiting cases were almost a hobby with Burns and it was he who led the smashing of the Bill Brockway gang of currency forgers in Philadelphia.

Hero of Capture Of Manila Dies

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—(AP.)—Col. Robert H. Sillman, hero of the capture of Manila and commander of the 27th Infantry in Siberia during the World War, died yesterday at the Letterman General Hospital on the San Francisco Presidio. Col. Sillman retired last June.

During the attack on Manila in the Spanish-American War there was a call for volunteers to storm a Spanish blockhouse and he was the first to respond. He was seriously wounded. His valor won him the Distinguished Service Cross.

MRS. BERTHA WESTBROOK REID . . . TODAY SON'S BIRTHDAY

Parent of Former Film Star Idol Visits Friends

Surrounded by intimate friends, Mrs. Bertha Westbrook Reid, mother of the late Wallace Reid, film star idol, quietly observed the anniversary of his birth here today. Reid died nine years ago after reaching the peak of his career.

The mother of the popular actor is spending the week in Pittsburgh as a guest at the home of Mrs. H. Bradley Foster, at 5852 Marlborough avenue. Tomorrow, with Mrs. Foster, she will attend "Rackety Packety House," the second in the Children's Playhouse series in the Nixon Theater.

Mrs. Reid, widow of Hal Reid, well-known playwright, revealed that a memorial was being erected in memory to her son in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, now in course of construction in New York.

During the past summer she was honor guest at the Metropolitan Opera House during the presentation of "Peter Ibbetson," produced by Deems Taylor. In the film version of the famous play, Wallace Reid scored his greatest success.

Westinghouse Cuts Refrigerator Price

AUCKLAND MOBS RENEW RIOTS

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, April 15.—(INS.)—A new outbreak of rioting by unemployed occurred tonight in Auckland, where serious disorders yesterday resulted in injuries to more than 200 persons and property damage totaling half a million dollars.

Angry mobs formed in the streets and one group set fire to the Church of the Epiphany which was badly damaged.

Mounted police, naval detachments and civilian volunteers battled with the rioters for three hours before they were dispersed after repeated charges.

Rosslyn Farms Women Forced to Meet Indoors

On account of weather conditions yesterday's program for the Rosslyn Farms Woman's Club took place in the home of Mrs. J. C. Wilson, Jr., instead of around the newly planted trees in the little local park. One of these by the way is an elm taken from ground owned by George Washington.

A paper on historical trees which was written by Mrs. William Parrish, Sr., was in her absence read by Mrs. William Parrish, Jr. A beautiful tribute to the senior Mrs. Parrish who is known as "The Mother of Rosslyn Farms" was read by Mrs. E. P. Schempp. An amusing nature game was part of the afternoon's festivities which were brought to a close by Mrs. I. K. ## SPRING MODE IS A RIOT OF COLOR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 15.—Fashion plays the color card and wins new interest in the spring mode. Never has there been such a riot of color so well controlled and judiciously used. Lots of red is seen here, often allied with white, a very youthful and chic color combination. Monotones and prints are smartly combined and this year the tables are turned. Instead of the print frock with the monotone coat, we have the one color frock with the printed coat, a fashion deliberately created to inspire new interest in printed fabrics and ensembles. Very often several shades of the same hue are combined with white or another good ground color. Beige and brown are both being set off by touches of deep orange and orange is also being used to accent dark green, the latter a very striking combination for a beautiful brunette. You will like the new dusty pinks with touches of dark red, nice too for brunettes. The blondes triumph in the red with white color scheme and in the lovely delicate blues that are high-lighted this season. Yes, it's color, color everywhere, just as it should be during the vernal season and summer.

THE NEW ENSEMBLE consisting of a plain frock and a printed coat has caught on here and so we are sending you a sketch of one of the models that started the fashion. It is by Maggy Rouff and is one of the gems of her new collection. The frock is of dusty pink romain and the long coat is of cashmere in pinkish white with large bowers of dark red. Interesting are the sleeves, pouched in three sections. There is no collar, but a large dark red flower decorates the neckline. The draped bodice of the frock has diagonal seams that are continued on the skirt. A buttoned closing fastens the skirt on one hip. There is a generous flare starting just above the knee with the deep folds clustered at the front and sides.

NAVY TO MOVE PACIFIC FORCE

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP).—Secretary Adams said the Navy "in all likelihood" would fulfil its present plan of bringing the scouting force of the fleet from the Pacific to the Atlantic next month.

The fleet plans call for the force to arrive off New York about June 15. Asked about reports that the force would be retained in the Pacific, the secretary said orders were "always subject to change," but that he expected the original plan to be carried out.

The force scheduled to return includes one battleship, the Arkansas; 12 cruisers, 33 destroyers and miscellaneous auxiliary craft.

Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, commander of the Asiatic fleet, meanwhile advised the Navy Department that Asiatic fleet units based at Manila would carry out scheduled exercises this summer off Chefoo and Tsingtao.

Pauletta Escapes Noose; Gets Life Term

FULL PARDON ASKED

Pauletta's Wife Joyous, Husband's Rape Pleas

confined in the penitentiary for the rest of his natural life.

"I am exceedingly disappointed in Gov. Conley's decision. He had promised relief. This is not relief that he has granted but additional torture. He has transferred the death sentence from Frank Pauletta to his wife and four children, who, without a bread winner, will now themselves face death from starvation.

SEES MISERY INCREASED

"I cannot understand why Gov. Conley does not realize that there is sufficient misery at this time without unnecessarily creating more.

"No one could possibly have been listened to Pauletta's release on parole. The original crime for which Pauletta was convicted should not have risen higher than second degree murder, for which the maximum punishment is 15 years.

"The Governor could well have reduced the punishment and could have committed Pauletta to the penitentiary for a short term with a parole for the remainder of the 15 years.

"It is all too bad. Mercy when justified, should not be limited."

PLANS TO GET JOB

Mrs. Pauletta's face was wreathed in smiles when she was informed that Gov. Conley had commuted the sentence. She said:

"I am glad his life was saved and that he didn't have to die."

Then realizing that the order had saved the life of her husband but meant only her help-mate for his lifetime, Mrs. Pauletta added:

"I must get work. I want to keep our family together. Catherine might be able to get work some place when things get better. I hope so. I hope I can find a job."

AIDED BY WELFARE FUND

Mrs. Pauletta revealed that the chief source of her income is $5 weekly from the Welfare Fund.

Judge Musmanno was informed of the governor's action by telegram. He replied to Governor [illegible] in the following telegram:

"I am convinced your Excellency acted entirely conscientiously in your decision, but I am very sorry you did not go further in the extension of mercy. I renew my thanks for your many courtesies."

Father, Daughter On Trial in Fraud

RALEIGH, N. C., Apr. 15. (AP)—Judge John H. Harwood of Bryson City and his daughter Lola, went on trial here today, the girl charged with embezzlement of state funds and the father with being an accessory after the fact.

Miss Harwood, a former license clerk in the Department of Revenue here, was indicted jointly with her father for the alleged embezzlement of $4,823 in state funds. Her father was indicted several weeks ago for the alleged manipulation of evidence which the state claims would prove his daughter innocent.

It's true, madam,
Dishwashing is the hardest part of marriage
BUT see how much easier it is with the New Oxydol
● Those times when it seems you just can't face another pile of dirty dishes—why not make it easier for yourself?
Use the New Oxydol. See what rich, creamy suds it makes—50% more suds. See how those thick suds cut the grease—and rinse off so dishes are sparkling clean, so there's no scum left.
Lively, long lasting suds that don't fizzle away are the secret of all easy washing—clothes as well as dishes. That's why Oxydol's richer, more lasting suds do more for you—whisk grease away like a flash, float dirt out of clothes and hold it out.
Yet Oxydol is safe—easy on hands and dainty things. It makes clean-smelling suds in the hardest water—and all water turns hard when you add dirty clothes or greasy dishes. You'll bless the day you learned its name.

CITY WELCOMES POLA NEGRI, FILM STAR

Polish Actress to Marry American If She Again Weds; Is Child of Destiny

Swamped in a deluge of baggage, maids and theater attaches, Pola Negri, exotic Polish screen and stage actress, arrived in Pittsburgh today to a week of personal appearances at the Stanley Theater and revealed that her next [illegible] Americ[illegible]

Then [illegible] the Pa[illegible] and sm[illegible] rushing [illegible] her act be[illegible] theater opened. Miss Negri took time out to answer the ques[illegible] she may wed again.

MAY WED AMERICAN

She said:

"I do not know. Three years ago I retired from pictures, thinking I could find happiness in matrimony. I was wrong.

"My next husband, and I mean this, if I do marry, will be an American.

"European men are better lovers, but they are self-centered; they place their love making above their marriage.

"You Americans are less sophisticated, you are more sincere in marriage.

"I am a child of destiny and a fatalist. Too often I have seen my plans go wrong. So all that I will say is that there is one particularly charming man, an American, but whether I marry him is entirely with Fate. Fate moves and we only follow."

FAREWELL TO POWELL

Ten trunks, 4 valises and [illegible] a secretary and a maid accompanied Miss Negri here where she appears in a stage show marking the farewell of Lee Powell, master of ceremonies at the Enright and Stanley theaters for three years, who leaves next week for Hollywood and the talkies.

GREETING POLA NEGRI

DIRECTOR JAMES M. CLARK — POLA NEGRI

Miss Negri received bouquets of roses as the news reel photographers ground away at the railroad station. A chorus of Polish girls, in native costume, sang native songs in the background.

Then the actress stepped into a limousine with whom bore a [illegible] and [illegible] his cards [illegible] to the Ritz-Carlton hotel, and was whisked away to rehearsal.

DE VALERA OATH BAN VICTORY HELD NEAR

Labor Party Aid Indicates Passage of Bill to Drop Allegiance to King George

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 15.—(AP)—A bill to remove the oath of allegiance to the British king from the constitution of the Irish Free State will be introduced in the Dail Eireann next Wednesday, the government has announced.

Its passage seemed virtually assured. Doubt that President Eamon De Valera's government would be able to muster sufficient votes to carry the proposed measure through the Dail appeared dispelled by a speech of Patrick Hogan, Deputy Speaker of the Chamber, who indicated that the Labor party would support it.

COSGRAVE OPPOSES

It was understood, however, that William T. Cosgrave, former president and now the opposition leader, would move non-acceptance of the bill until its reaction on the Anglo-Irish treaty, which set up the Free State 10 years ago, had been investigated by both the Free State and British governments.

Hogan, a member of the Labor party, told an audience at Kilrush, County Clare, last night that his party would stand behind the administration of President de Valera in the belief that it is working to benefit "honest labor."

The oath of allegiance to the king has become a bone of contention between the new Free State government of Eamon De Valera and Great Britain since the fiery republican has publicly stated and reiterated that the oath is not mandatory and is the essence of the kind of "inequality" that has kept Ireland and England at odds for 750 years.

OATH IN TREATY

The oath of allegiance was included in the Anglo-Irish treaty creating the Free State in 1922, and was regarded by the government party of William Cosgrave as an integral part of that treaty.

When De Valera came out for president in the elections of February of this year, one of his principal campaign arguments was to abolish the oath to the king, and shortly after he became president he reiterated his determination to do away with it although he took the oath when he became president.

The British Government immediately dispatched a note of protest, which declared that Great Britain would look with grave concern on any attempt to abolish the oath to the King.

On April 5, after much discussion, De Valera's cabinet agreed on a reply, which was prefaced with an expression of friendliness toward Great Britain, but an insistence that the government had a mandate from the Irish people to forego the oath in the future.

ERIE, Pa., April 15.—(AP)—Charged with throwing hot ashes over a child, Mrs. Jean Nehr, 24, was arrested yesterday.

The payments included: Allegheny County, Forward Township, $5,450.

The men and equipment were apportioned to sub-stations all a mile or more from the downtown section.

EGULAR RALLY AMMED ON NORTH SIDE

rd Chairmen Turn Out to ail G. O. P. Ticket; Davis Re presented by Mackrell

Marked by indications of darity in North Side Republ n ranks, a rally held last ht in North Side Carnegie sic Hall by the Regular Re blican organization was ad essed by candidates and ty leaders. Every ward irman of the district was pres to join with candidates for tional and state offices and mbers of the executives of the l Regular organization to urge port for the entire ticket headby Senator James J. Davis. Davis was unable to be present to engagements in other sec ns of the state, and was repre ted by his state campaign man r, Joseph N. Mackrell, Register Wills.

PLAINS SPEECH POLICY

Mackrell said of Senator Davis: "Many persons have asked hy Senator Davis has not been eard more on the floor of the nate since he was elected two ars ago.

"He has told me the reason as that his time is so largely aken up with the hundreds of ersons from Pennsylvania who ome singly and in groups to is office in Washington to dis ss matters interesting them, nd his mail is so heavy, taking ven clerks to handle it, that hatever time he has he uses ore advantageously in committee meetings, where the real gislative work is done, than in peaking on the Senate floor."

William H. Coleman, campaign airman for the Regular Republican organization, said:

"Our candidate for auditor, tate Senator Frank Baldwin, as spent all his adult life tryng to build up the Republican arty. I ask you what service id his opponent, Ralph E. linn, ever give the Republican arty in the state?

SAILS PINCHOT

"We are opposed to Gov. Pinhot and his policy, which means he so-called Independent party. 'inchot is stirring up strife in n effort to be elected Presient of the United States and, I lon't know what you think, but don't want him in that office."

State Senator James J. Coyne, Western Pennsylvania representative of the state Republican organization, declared:

"I am opposed to the ticket set up by the man who came into public life 12 years ago and was defeated on the North Side by 1,500 votes. I mean Cad Barr. We are for Davis, Waters, Baldwin and Judges Stadtfeld, Gawthrop and Lieut. Gov. James for the Superior Court bench."

ERK REVEALS ERRAND

Congressman Edmund F. Erk, seeking re-election in the Thirteenth District, explained his hurried departure from the meeting by saying:

"I must catch a train so as to be in Washington tomorrow for a definite and specific purpose. I am proud to tell you that it is to sign the beer bill."

Senator Baldwin said:

"Pinchot declined to sign the Talbot bill appropriating $10,000,000 for relief of the needy because the bill provided that the money be distributed according to population by the various county poor boards. The Governor wanted to distribute the money as he wished to welfare organizations."

Former Lieut. Gov. James declared he would rather be defeated having the support of Gen. Edward Martin and his associates in the state organization than to be elected with the support of Gov. Pinchot.

WOMEN'S VIEWPOINT

Mrs. Laura J. Hinnau, vice chairman of the Regular Republican organization of Allegheny County, said she represented the feminine contingent in the principle that

"Prohibition is a pocketbook issue. In urging repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, our organization has taken up the cause of temperance."

Other speakers included Representatives James P. Rooney and James Wettach, seeking re-election in the Seventh Legislative District; Representative William F. Stadtlander and E. M. Hough, running for the Legislature in the Eighth District; City Councilman Harry A. Little and C. B. Connelley, Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, Attorney Bresce Leonard and William Robson.

LEADERS PRESENT

Party leaders in the audience included Representative Samuel J. Grenet, chairman of the Twenty-seventh Ward; George J. Schad, State Senator Morris Einstein, chairman of the Twenty-fifth Ward; Director Edward G. Lang of the City Department of Public Works; John A. Fugassi, formerly of the County Road Bureau, and James E. Routley, former assistant chief clerk of the County Commissioners' office.

In Trance

HELEN DARBY

VANISHED GIRL FOUND DAZED

Miss Helen Darby, 18, a department store clerk, of 1423 Jancey street, found walking in a trance with upraised hands three blocks from her home last night, was believed by the family physician today to be a victim of amnesia.

Mrs. Ruth Laughrey, of 1654 Duffield street, a friend of the family, found the girl wandering near the former's home an hour after police were asked to search for her. She was in a daze and attempts to question her proved futile.

Miss Darby disappeared yesterday when she went to lunch in the store cafeteria.

She complained of a severe headache and told a fellow employe she was going to take a walk.

The physician told the girl's mother, Mrs. Michael Darby, that she apparently was a victim of amnesia and recommended a rest.

CANDIDATES AT MURPHY DINNER

Candidates for national and state offices on the Regular Republican organization ticket were guests of the Original Valley Club of Lawrenceville at a testimonial dinner last night to James Murphy in Paradise Gardens, Babcock boulevard, near Keown Station. Deputy Fire Chief Louis Conley, Republican chairman of the Ninth Ward, presided.

Speakers included State Senator James J. Coyne; Councilman M. J. Muldowney, candidate for Congress; former Lieut. Gov. Arthur H. James, candidate for Judge of the Superior Court; State Senator Frank E. Baldwin, candidate for Auditor General; Representatives P. J. Maloney and George Metzler, seeking re-election; Dr. S. H. Johnson, member of the City Civil Service Commission; Noble Matthews, and Floyd Rowley.

POSTERS SHOW TRAFFIC PERIL

Posters depicting dangers of traffic violations appeared at many filling stations of the Pittsburgh district today, marking the opening of a 12-month safety campaign by Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey.

Scenes typical of accidents resulting from violations of traffic laws will be presented in colored sketches, a new poster appearing each month. The gasoline companies announced they are cooperating with the bureau of motor vehicles in an effort to reduce the growing number of accidents causing loss of life, injury and property damage.

Important Vitamins Are Found in Shellfish

In addition to its nutritive value, this food makes the menu more tempting and lends variety to the diet.

United States Senator From New York.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City.

Many of us eat shellfish only when we attend state functions. This is unfortunate, because every such article is a wholesome and nutritious food.

Shellfish may be divided into two classes. There is one group of shellfish in which a firm crustlike shell covers body and limbs. These are spoken of as "crustaceans." To this class belong lobsters, crabs, crayfish and shrimps.

There is another group spoken of as "mollusks." Among these we have such shellfish as oysters, clams and scallops.

Crustaceans, especially lobsters, are an important source of protein food. The proteins and fat of lobsters have nutritive values equal to that found in meat. They may be substituted for meat. Contrary to the common belief, lobsters are as easily digested as beef and other meats. They contain important vitamins and a liberal supply of iodine. These are of value in combatting certain constitutional disorders.

Of all the crustaceans, crabs are the most popular. They are found in great variety, either in the sea in shallow water or on the land near the water. These shellfish multiply rapidly and are in season all year round. The most important food types are the hard and soft-shelled crabs.

Oysters are the popular representative of the mollusk family. They are the most democratic of all shellfish, being found in the most expensive as well as in the cheaper eating places. They are sold in the shell or out of the shell, fresh or canned, and are served in various ways.

The composition of oysters closely resembles that of other forms of fish or meat. The lime content is higher than of meat, and only slightly less than milk. Oysters also contain other important mineral elements and vitamins.

Many persons show unpleasant symptoms after eating shellfish. They complain of indigestion and skin rashes after eating oysters, for example. They should avoid foods that cause this reaction.

Others avoid shellfish believing they are dangerous and a menace to good health. There is no need for this attitude. Adequate supervision and rigid public health inspection by state and federal authorities have eliminated the dangers that used to attach to the eating of shellfish.

Today all food authorities and dietetical experts recommend shellfish. It is usually served as a supplementary dish. It can be used as the chief dish of the meal, because it adequately supplies the necessary food requirements.

Shellfish should be eaten more frequently. In addition to its nutritive value, it makes the menu more tempting and lends variety to the diet.

HARLAN CRITICS CALLED 'REDS'

PINEVILLE, Ky., April 15 (AP).—The charge that the American Civil Liberties Union is a communistic organization in the service of the Soviet Union was made in a statement here yesterday by Walter B. Smith, Bell County attorney. He said:

"The American Civil Liberties Union is now trying to divert the attention of the world from its communistic purposes by threatening suits against me and others for the alleged whipping of Arkansas Reds last Sunday."

Adding that he welcomed the test, the county attorney ended with: "on with the dance. O. K. New York and Moscow."

Smith, Bell County officers who two weeks ago prevented two busloads of eastern college students from entering the Bell and Harlan County coal fields where strike disorders cost eight lives last year.

STORY OF SUFFERING STRESSES RELIEF NEED

Both Factions Flout Mansfield, Topley

By MARK SHIELDS

An oddity of the present Republican legislative primary in Allegheny County is the manner in which both regulars and independents have flouted County Chairman William D. Mansfield, as well as S. J. Topley, Clerk of Courts. Topley was on both independent and regular tickets in the county primary last fall.

Mr. Shields

One example is in the Ninth Legislative District, which is the city of McKeesport, Mansfield's home. Here the organization has indorsed James K. Ruby, the choice influenced by William H. Coleman, Mansfield foe, and chairman of the regular campaign committee this year.

Mansfield, together with Mayor Lyle, is backing Clarence C. Johnson. The Independents, in preparing their slate, decided to indorse no one, saying they were laying that district aside out of deference to Mansfield. But their deference does not publicly extend to the point of real aid.

Moreover, in the Tenth Legislative District there not only is no sign of deference, but a remarkable repudiation of recent sentiments which makes it almost positive that the Independent slate is the project of County Commissioner C. M. Barr and not of Commissioner Charles C. McGovern.

It will be recalled that some time ago, during the state-wide slatemaking, there was insistence that Allegheny County should be recognized by Philadelphia by awarding this section the Auditor General nomination, as well as agreeing to back Judge Stadtfeld for election to the Superior Court.

Reports of Displeasure In District Over Slate

Mansfield broached the name of Representative James H. McClure as an ideal candidate for Auditor General. He made the suggestion to State Chairman Edward Martin. McGovern, with emphasis, indorsed the suggestion, which appeared to mean that the Independents rated McClure, a veteran legislator, as worthy of a responsible position.

But the Philadelphia organization and the Republican State Committee refused to yield to the wishes of this county, and McClure did not become a candidate for state office.

When the organization perfected its slate for the Tenth District his name was not found among those indorsed. When the Independents came to make recommendations he was similarly neglected. So a man thought worthy of filling the post of Auditor General a few weeks ago is today not even approved by the Independents for member of the Legislature. That is, he is not approved by the Independents who prepared the legislative slate.

There have been reports that in this district, particularly, McGovern is displeased with the slate and does not approve the omission of McClure, who has the backing of both Mansfield and Topley.

Out in the Twelth District there is some ill feling among candidates who did not get an organization indorsement, as well as a report that a candidate not among the favored quartet really will be aided. Burgess Fred Gangloff, of Coraopolis, a present member, has told friends he had been assured of indorsement, but somehow failed to get it.

Eddie Ray was boosted by some organization leaders, but it was deemed inexpedient to put him on the slate. There have been hints that there will be some quiet work done for Ray in an effort to elect him instead of one of the slated four.

Rival Slates Fail To Sweep Away Fog

Stating anything as a fact about this jumbled legislative primary is difficult. About the only thing clearly perceived is that the formation of rival slates has not swept away the fog, and has inspired rather than dampened the fighting spirit of men who in the the past have been either with the Independents or organization, but this year have to battle for themselves.

Below is the list of legislative candidates in the Thirteenth District, in the order in which the names appear on the ballot. This is the final district of the county, and with its presentation the Sun-Telegraph has given to the voters the list of every district in the county.

THIRTEENTH DISTRICT
(Two Members)

Republican — Herbert Sniderman, Evergreen road, Millvale; Albert W. Schott, Shaler Township; Philip J. Clowes, 855 Eighth avenue, Brackenridge; Fred Lourimore, 326 Centennial avenue, Sewickley; James G. McFarland, West Deer Township.

William A. Walker, 228 Belva street, Avalon; Julia G. Hudepohl, 315 East Tenth avenue, Tarentum; William L. Brown, 207 Fourth avenue, Tarentum; John H. Arnold, 1108 Third avenue, Brackenridge; John W. Cost, 613 Hemlock street, Avalon; George Marvin Cook, 1735 South Canal street, Sharpsburg; Albert B. Davidson, 536 East Tenth avenue, Tarentum; C. Verne Shoup, 204 Bronx avenue, West View.

5 INDICTED, FACE TRIAL SOON IN BANK CASE

Bardolph, Charged With Embezzlement, and Others Held By Grand Jury Action

Trial during the spring term of Criminal Court was in prospect today for C. A. Bardolph, president of the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company, following return of indictments against him by the grand jury yesterday, charging embezzlement of approximately $300,000.

Herman Friedman, indorser of deposed City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley's note in the closed bank; P. T. Armstrong, David Kellerman and O. W. Brose were also indicted on a number of charges. State Bank Examiner George F. Taylor was the prosecutor in all the cases. Trials of these defendants will also be listed for the spring term, District Attorney Andrew T. Park said.

The grand jury stopped its work on the registration fraud probe for about two hours while it considered the bank cases. District Attorney Park took personal charge in presenting the cases, aided by two assistants, Ralph Hunter and H. R. Phillips.

Bardolph was indicted on two charges of conspiracy, 18 of embezzlement and 31 counts of embezzlement, false entries and perjury.

Friedman was indicted on one charge of conspiracy and six of fraudulent conversion. Kellerman indicted on one charge of conspiracy and 13 of false pretense; Armstrong on 20 charges of making false entries, and Brose indicted on one charge of forgery.

Garbage Men Spurn License Number 13

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., April 15.—(AP.)—There's no sale for license No. 13 among the independent garbage wagon drivers. None of the applicants for licenses would accept the number so the officials skipped it for the time being.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, April 15.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The Democrats met to consciously drink a toast to Thomas Jefferson, and unconsciously elected Herbert Hoover. It's been the same every year, only this fall it's going to be harder for Democrats to elect a Republican than it's generally been. The reason it's tough is, there are hundreds of people this year that are going to vote the Democratic ticket in spite of the Democratic party.

Yours, Will.

THE COOLING RUINS OF TWO GLENSHAW GLASS COMPANY WAREHOUSES, FILLED WITH BOTTLES . . . . . FIREMEN OF FIVE COMMUNITIES FOUGHT FLAMES

PROBE HILL FIRE ROUTING 13

The bomb and arson squad of the City Detective Bureau was investigating a fire which swept the roof of a three-story vacant building at 1921 Webster avenue, early today.

Fireman Ferd Staley, 40, of 3926 Liberty avenue, attached to No. 5 Engine Company, overcome by smoke while battling the blaze, was in Mercy Hospital.

Thirteen persons in an adjoining house at 1919 Webster avenue were forced to flee into the street in night clothing when smoke filled their living quarters. They were H. Schwartz, his wife, Clara, and their children, Jeannette, 23; Richard, 21; Sarah, 19; Meyer, 17; Norman, 16, and Sylvia, 12, who were asleep on the first floor and Sam Rother, his wife, Mary, and their three children, Esther, 18; Rebecca, 12, and Max, 10, who occupied the second floor.

The flames illuminated the neighborhood and attracted several hundred persons. After the blaze, which resulted in damage estimated at $800, was extinguished, firemen discovered that the top flooring had been saturated with oil, police say.

Dry Law Is Like Useless Plaster-- It Sticks Tight

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

It didn't cure his lumbago. But he can't pull it off.

It's in the middle of his back where he can't reach it. It tickles and it irritates. And the only pal who can scratch it for him is the bootlegger.

An ex-Senator stood up in meeting yesterday and said beer would bring in a billion a year.

But the drys don't want that kind of money. And they ain't got any other kind.

There's a tax on water. There's a tax on liquid cement. There's a tax on castor oil and one on cough medicines.

Why not tax something we might enjoy drinking?

All we can say about democracy is that it is a queer store where the buyer hasn't got his choice.

M'KEES ROCKS MAN SHOT

Antonio Maddalon, 45, proprietor of the McKees Rocks Taxicab Company, with bullet wounds in the stomach, hip and leg, lay in Allegheny General Hospital today while county detectives investigated his story that the wounds were inflicted by a holdup man.

Maddalon, who lives at 732 Thompson avenue, McKees Rocks, said he was driving in Rochester road when another car blocked his path. A man leaped from the other car and held him up, Maddalon said. He declared he gave the thug $24 and a watch, but the man returned them and shot him three times.

Maddalon said he abandoned his automobile and walked half a dozen blocks to the hospital. Although he was wounded in the hip and leg, his clothing showed no bullet holes, the detectives said. They declared Maddalon became reticent when they told him they doubted his story.

Ex-Indiana Bank Employe Arrested

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—(INS.)—Charles E. Nothnagel, 29, was held here today on warrants charging him with embezzlement of $10,000 from the Indiana County National Bank, Indiana, Pa., by which he was formerly employed. He was seized in a rooming house here last night.

Low Rental Paid By Pitt Assailed

ERIE, Pa., April 15.—(AP.)—School Director James E. Speed yesterday attacked "cheap rentals" paid by the Erie extension center of the University of Pittsburgh.

Speed said the university paid $500 annually for its quarters and the use of the Strong-Vincent High School laboratories and asserted the rent should be boosted to $10,000.

FIRE DESTROYS WAREHOUSES

An investigation was being made today to determine the origin of a fire which destroyed two warehouses and a loading platform of the Glenshaw Glass Company, Inc., and three freight cars on a siding of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad near the Butler Plank road, causing damage estimated by company officials at $50,000 late last night.

The fire reported to have started in one of the empty freight cars, destroyed the one-story 100-foot square frame buildings in less than two hours while volunteer fire companies from Etna, Undercliffe, Fifteenth, Bairdstown, Hampton Township and Indiana Township battled to save the structures. In the buildings cardboard and wooden cases of glass bottles were stored.

Traffic on the Butler Plank road, the main artery between Pittsburgh and Butler was blocked for a short time and special police were called to regain order.

1,471 FAMILIES DESTITUTE IN TWO WARDS

South Side Settlement Worker Reveals Figures; Large Gifts Sought as Spur

The great need for support of the Family-Help-Family plan was revealed more clearly today when figures were announced showing that 75 per cent. of the wage earners of families in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Wards, the South Side, are working three days a week or less. These figures were disclosed at the headquarters of the campaign and were presented by F. J. Skalak, of the Brashear Settlement.

According to Skalak, the total population of the two wards is 49,370, averaging six persons to a family. Seventy-five per cent of the wage earners are working three days a week or less, 65 per cent are working two days or less, and that 45 per cent are working one day or less.

MANY DESTITUTE

Of the total population of the ward, 17,830 persons representing 2,971 families, have been receiving relief. Skalak said that 32 per cent of the heads of families are unemployed and that 1,471 families are entirely destitute.

These figures were announced at headquarters following the daily report luncheon of volunteer workers at which time it was stated that 162 more families had been provided for.

Of the 28,500 needy families in the county, 2,306 have been provided for to date, leaving 25,794 still in need.

Speakers at the luncheon yesterday urged the volunteers to do their utmost during the next 24 hours in order to produce, today, the largest single advance.

Senator Frank J. Harris, sponsor of the plan, said:

"The time has come when the appeal must either make an exceptional gain or falter and I do not believe the campaign is to lose momentum. I believe the campaign would gain vigor if large gifts are reported."

Senator Harris urged the volunteers to see every possible giver and to not hold back any gifts. Harris and Taylor Allderdice, head of the advance guard, expressed confidence that satisfactory progress would be made during the next few days.

WOMEN MEET

An organization meeting of women in the East End district was held yesterday in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church under the direction of Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, vice chairman of the city division in charge of the East End district. Mrs. Allderdice and Mrs. Saul Lavine, the city chairman, spoke.

Another East End meeting is to be held Tuesday afternoon in Carnegie Music Hall at which the Rev. Robert A. MacGowan, pastor of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, will speak.

Mrs. F. C. Hugh, head of the women's division, met with her executive group in William Penn Hotel yesterday. Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, in charge of the dinner, was present, as was Mrs. Lavine, the city leader.

The radio appeals will be brought to a close today with an address by Councilman P. J. Mennessen, the driver, who will speak over Station WCAE at 5 p. m.

Trout Season Start Draws Hundreds to Streams

Daybreak today saw hundreds of Pittsburgh district fishing enthusiasts, including many women, camped by the streams in northern counties of the state as the trout season began, to continue through July 31.

Automobile parties spotted the mountain highways during the night as the sportsmen sought their favorite streams. Fishermen using bait were reported getting better results than fly-casting anglers. Many good catches were reported.

The small streams of Warren and Forest counties were reported by O. M. Deibler, state commissioner of fisheries, as in best condition. Creeks and rivers in those districts were supplied with trout last fall and again this spring. Other streams attracting local fishermen were in Jefferson, Lycoming, Westmoreland, Fayette, Somerset, Cameron and Clearfield counties.

Speaking at the sixth annual banquet of the Ligonier Valley Sportsmen's Association last night, Deibler said Pennsylvania streams were stocked with 521,000,000 fish last year at a cost of $218,000, paid by fishing licenses.

Dr. Samuel H. Williams, member of the State Game Commission, told the gathering that if the proposed 1-cent tax on shotgun shells passed:

"You sportsmen relinquish your control of shooting and propogation and all authority is passed to the federal government."

WELFARE FUND FACES CASH SHORTAGE

Large Fund Outstanding In Pledges May Necessitate Borrowing for Work

The Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh will have to borrow funds to meet the cash requirements of its agencies this month unless advance payments on large subscriptions are made, it was announced. The fund faced a cash shortage of more than $100,000 earlier in the month, but this was made up by advance payments.

Pledges for the campaign totaled $4,442,000, but the fund actually received only $3,877,116 up to March 31, and to date has paid out to agencies $3,408,682.

Of the amount paid out there was $465,750 to the Allegheny County Emergency Association for unemployment relief, and the remainder has gone to other agencies providing the family health and character-building groups.

EXPLAINS EXPENSES

Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the fund, stated today that the fund is operating this year on 7.7 per cent of the total raised in the campaign. This includes all expenses in the campaign.

Maxwell said:

"There has been considerable misunderstanding regarding the administrative costs in individual agencies because of failure to realize the various types of service financed through the Welfare Fund.

"If we take the budget of the Public Health Nursing Association, which operates on a budget of $122,550 from the fund this year, and analyze this budget, we find that more than 90 per cent of the funds allotted this organization are used to pay salaries of trained public health nurses, who are providing care to thousands of patients unable to afford such care. Certainly this cannot be called overhead.

MAINTENANCE COSTS

"Again, in the care of homeless children, the budget of such an agency is used for the maintenance of an institution and the small personnel needed to direct it. In a sense the whole budget is relief, although it goes for such expenses as rent, heat, light, laundry, clothes and meals. Such is the case in every type of family problem except unemployment relief.

"We cannot give exact figures on administrative costs of unemployment relief, because the family agencies are also carrying on a family service program which is distinct from relief, but which cannot be separated from a budget standpoint. We estimate the cost of administering unemployment relief at not more than 10 per cent—the figure accepted as standard throughout the country.

"It should be remembered that this figure is true only of unemployment relief, a problem which requires a minimum of service. In all other family problems the trained service or case work becomes an important factor. This service shows on the budget only as salaries paid to workers, yet it cannot be called overhead."

FOUR HELD UP IN DRUG STORE

Four employes of the Dow Drug Company's store, Penn and Center avenues, were held at bay by two armed robbers, who rifled the safe of $325, the day's receipts, shortly after midnight.

The cash had been taken from the registers and was being placed in the safe when bandits entered and commanded Howard Klaus, of 5312 Gertrude street; Jeannette Singler, of 912 West street, Wilkinsburg; Mary Mattie, of 168 Milford street, Duquesne, and Ernest Steiner, of 5845 Pierce street, employes, to walk to the rear of the store. The bandits were believed to have escaped in an automobile.

A Negro footpad slugged Thomas Joyce, of 29 Yoder street, and robbed him of $60 at Second avenue and Botheryden street late yesterday, police were informed.

Fortune 15 Cents, Mary Nolan Pleads

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—(AP)—Mary Nolan told a debt referee yesterday that she and her husband, Wallace Marcosz, had 30 cents when they left their home for the courthouse, but that in a burst of extravagancy spent 15 cents for cigarets. The remaining 15 cents, the blonde screen actress testified, represented all the money they had in the world.

The couple was summoned in connection with another of the many debt claims faced by the former Imogene Wilson of the New York musical comedy stage. She recently was sentenced to jail for failure to pay wages, but the case has not been finally decided.

SEE HOMEWOOD BANK OPENING

Reopening of the Homewood Peoples Bank were predicted last night by George R. Dorman, chairman of the bank's reorganization committee, at a mass meeting of more than 1,000 depositors in the Homewood Carnegie Library.

At the meeting, 300 additional $75 shares of stock were sold, bringing the total to 1,500 shares sold in the drive to get $150,000 in new money necessary to reopen the bank. Only 500 shares more remain to be sold before the bank can reopen.

The balance of the money will be raised in a few days, it was predicted by Dorman. Headquarters have been established in the Homewood Realty Building, Kelly street, for the taking of subscriptions.

Charles A. McClintock, assistant to the president of the Colonial Trust Company, trustee of the reorganization fund, said a heavy loss to depositors of the closed bank would result from a liquidation of the bank's stock under present conditions. He said reorganization would be profitable.

Wife Kills Self In Dispute Over Family Auto

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 15.—(AP)—A quarrel over the use of the family car resulted in the death yesterday of Mrs. Edna Boone, 35, of Rock Glen.

The discovery of the woman, with a bullet wound in the temple, brought from her husband, John, 29, a mine worker, the story of the quarrel and the suicide of his wife.

Boone told police he and his wife had argued when she brought the automobile home with some of the bearings burned out. While preparing breakfast, he said, he heard a shot and found his wife dead on a sofa. A revolver lay beside her.

Boone was questioned by the investigators but was not arrested.

'Won't Come Back,' Ethel Tells Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., April 15.—(AP)—Ethel Barrymore, American actress, cast a ripple in a fashionable club audience yesterday when she said she probably would never come back to Toronto because "nobody has come to see her current play, "School for Scandal." She asked with a smile:

"Why should I? Excepting—or accepting—myself the play has never been better presented and to present Sheridan in the modern day is a difficult thing. Maybe you don't like classics."

BLAST WRECKS MONONGAHELA BUILDING

Explosion Which Rocks City Blamed on Bomb; Four Firemen Smoke Victims

MONONGAHELA, Pa., April 15.—A terrific explosion here early today, believed caused by a bomb, rocked the district, destroying one building and badly damaging two others. Windows in a score of other places were shattered.

The blast hurled many from their beds, and in the blaze that followed, four Monongahela firemen were overcome by smoke.

BLAMED ON BOMB

Following a hasty investigation in which he said the blast was caused by dynamite bomb with a time arrangement, Police Lieut. Charles Byers notified state police and asked for a thorough probe.

The explosion occurred in a vacant two-story frame structure at 909 Main street, and its force tore the walls asunder, hurling fragments into other adjacent dwellings.

The first floor of the building is a storeroom into which Frank Babaro was to move today. The fixtures which he had already moved into the building were destroyed. The second floor apartment is vacant.

TOSSED FROM BEDS

Glass and sash in the windows of the adjoining dwelling occupied by F. C. Charlton were smashed, and Charlton, his wife and 10-month-old baby were tossed from their beds. Damage to the property was estimated at $2,500.

An occupied residence on the other side of the blasted building also was damaged by the explosion. It is owned by Mrs. Joseph G. Armstrong, of Pittsburgh. The other dwellings are owned by W. J. Blankenbuehler.

Firemen fought for four hours to confine the blaze to the building in which the explosion occurred.

The bullet-riddled body of Hayes was found beside his expensive automobile, in which he apparently had attempted to escape his assailants. The bodies of the two others were found several miles away.

HUGE JOB LOAN URGED BY COX

More than 2,000 citizens of the South Side thronged Morse School, Sarah street, last night to hear Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, legislative candidate, and the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, discuss the unemployment situation.

The two speakers are scheduled to outline their plan for jobless relief at a meeting tonight in Brookline School, Pioneer avenue.

At the Morse School meeting both Father Cox and Ellenbogen spoke in favor of a $5,000,000,000 federal bond issue to give immediate employment to millions of idle citizens and for federal legislation that would preclude the possibility of such an economic tragedy occurring again to bring millions to the verge of starvation.

CONVICT FOUND AFTER 7 YEARS

His identity revealed through a "grapevine" tip, Henry Lehna, 54, of Lorain, O., who escaped from Rockview Penitentiary seven years ago, was on his way back to that institution today.

Lehna was sentenced to 55 years from Crawford County in 1907 on a charge involving the chaining of a girl to a tree, according to the records.

He escaped September 19, 1925. He subsequently was arrested in Ohio on a morality charge and sentenced under the name of Guy Johnson to Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus. He had completed his minimum sentence of four years and eight months yesterday, and would have gained his liberty, but for the underground tip, police said.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

[illegible] golf [illegible] society [illegible] hiss [illegible] and [illegible] players dining [illegible] quest [illegible] that [illegible] The [illegible] brass [illegible] for a [illegible] Sid [illegible] but [illegible] scrap [illegible] Parks [illegible] Paris [illegible]

Wonder if Hilda Moore Hawks husband has any legal right to halt [illegible] of [illegible] name [illegible] how [illegible] Frank [illegible] and [illegible] troupe. [illegible] difficult [illegible] cover [illegible] claimed [illegible] roars [illegible] among [illegible] heavily [illegible] parades [illegible] worn [illegible] rain [illegible] world [illegible] enemies [illegible] evening [illegible]

Interesting observation by Cecil Fawcett—"that age means nothing in Hollywood." Marie Dressler at 60 enjoys greater popularity than anyone at 25. John Barrymore at 50 still plays [illegible] young lovers with realism. On the other hand, Chic Sale, who is in his 50s, scores in roles of aged, white-haired men and Dorothy Peterson, who is 24, is usually assigned to mother roles. Reminds me of the late Robert Ames before the chinemas embraced him. When he starred in "Seed" here one reviewer complained that the chief fault with Ames was that he "wasn't the type to play the part of a father of a grown son."

The newsreel in a cafe Ames interviewed the critic is his 20-years-old boy. Always get a kick out of Bert Lytell and his sketch "The Valiant." Wonder why Lytell interferes with this [illegible] planned for The Actors Dinner Club—considering it was [illegible] feed the distressed members of the profession."

Well, the last of the river rendezvous, the Mansion, has been seized by the enemy, and it is something to be mournful about. Those cooch dancers are now the property of the raiders, and the impresario whose luck has been painful has a sound reason to order a straitjacket. A peaceful citizen he is too—catering to diversion seekers—but flame and now the law has wiped him out.

Handy a reward for one who was the first to invite the hungry who came in droves to feast on chipped beef steaks that rate a high tariff from the regular customers. This he did in the daytime—spending whatever profits there were to make others less hospitable—and now Andy Volstead's statute makes him a probable candidate for the breadlines he helped to make. It makes me mad.

There, by way of contrast, there is the reminder that a drug emporium on Eighth avenue, in the theatrical section, offers the ailing poor free medicines—providing they come with a doctor's recommendation. Wonder why Pola Negri always sleeps with a revolver under her pillow.

I don't get the connection of Vincent Lopez and the "epigram" that he has forwarded to this desk and probably that one: "Talking Depression," he proverbs. "Won't Help Matters—Try Working Harder." Wonder who writes his material? Funny how legends are magnified—Conrad Nagel of the flickers is recorded as a high mogul in a Pacific Coast church—where he is really an usher. Ripley probably has included the fact that in Baltimore Wm. C. Boog sells malt and hops. The newcomer to Broadway must be amused if not startled at that placard in the cafeteria near 50th street which says: "Breakfast served until 4 p. m." The Will Hays office, which monitors the conduct of the movies, has an interesting crew of girls—one being a double for Norma Shearer, another for Lupe Velez, one for Joan Bennett and still another a ringer for Betty Bronson. Leslie Howard maintains that the theater has been "run down" by the players themselves for being too friendly with the public off-stage.

Just my luck to have to miss the premiere of the Grand Hotel flicker. The talk is that La Crawford runs off with the honors. If this is true, then they have toyed with Vicki Baum's original, for in the stage version that meal went to a male member of the cast. Things for me to worry about. What confuses me about the political argument is that nearly everywhere you go in town—the sympathy is with Mr. Hoover. No one seems to be able to explain why—but the average person will tell you that Hoover isn't to blame for this or that. But I know that!

I am confused because for years now every home organ and most every editorial page has used the President for a target. Personally I'd like to see a Democrat win—just to see what happens.

The Federation of Ukrainian Women's Church presented the Ukrainian National Choir of Pennsylvania in its first Pittsburgh concert last night in Carnegie Music Hall. There have been a larger audience to welcome the new band of singers who have just begun to be known.

The members of the choir are a new generation of Americans who are trying to preserve the glorious music of the Russian Ukraine songs brimful of poetry and folk legends and tunes that one wants to remember.

Konstantin Gulik works like a sterling musician. The choir however, has the frailties of its youth and since the director has had up until recently [illegible] mentary rehearsals, that explains the unevenness in tone, the difficulties it assuming good ensemble. But these singers still have in them the spirit of these songs, especially in the sacred music which they have likely heard oftener in their churches.

We may expect on their return to hear a choir advanced in technique and then the choir should be able to compete with the best of the Russians.

Mr. Lugosi Cracks Ribs But Show Goes On

Bela Lugosi is appearing on Hollywood stage in a mystery play. Although the audience didn't know it, he fell through a stage trap-door the other evening and cracked three ribs. While the management held the second act curtain 20 minutes, Lugosi was strapped up with adhesive. He finished out the performance and has continued to do so ever since.

Charlie Ruggles Cast With Chevalier

Charlie Ruggles, genial comedian, and Elizabeth Patterson, famous character woman, will support Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald in "Love Me Tonight."

Story of Drinking Wins Wife Divorce

Claiming her husband was frequently intoxicated and beat and choked her, Mildred B. Morcatt, 25, of 6450 Jackson street, was granted a divorce from Frank E. Morcatt, 31, of 26 Forbes street, Homestead, sales engineer for Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

She told Judge George V. Moore, in Common Pleas Court, that at a house party her husband dragged her from one room to another and beat her at a party at the Duquesne Canoe Club.

New Castle to Curb Smoking of Teachers

NEW CASTLE, Pa., April 15.—Dr. C. C. Green, Superintendent of Public Schools, has received instructions to halt the smoking of cigarets by teachers while on duty. He promised the Board of Education that the practice would be stopped. Teachers caught smoking in or about the school building will be severely disciplined, he declared.

Killed in Fall From Rail Trestle

ALTOONA, Pa., April 15.—The body of Edgard W. Hill, 63, of Loop, near Hollidaysburg, was found in the Frankstown branch of the Juniata River, yesterday. He fell from the railroad trestle that crosses the stream. His skull was fractured.

The Girl!

An 'It' Girl Becomes A Poet

By HARRISON CARROLL

[illegible] 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD, April 15.—Let Broadway and Hollywood bid to the skies, Clara Bow is going to sit at home, write poetry and play at being housewife unless just the right sort of role turns up.

This afternoon I talked with the famous red head and she told me something of the philosophy which enables her to get a big thrill out of writing a short poem or of baking her first lemon pie while listening with indifference to offers of $10,000 a week.

Clara Bow

Dressed like a tomboy with orange beach trousers, white knit vest and a sailor's hat perched on her flaming hair, Clara looked very much like the flapper she grew so tired of playing on the screen.

"In a way, I want to come back, but I can't seem to make up my mind to it," she said. "When I quit pictures last May, I hated the sight of a camera and I wanted to tear the make-up off my face. My nerves were at the breaking point. I couldn't sleep at night.

"Now I'm much better but I still suffer a lot from insomnia. I ask myself is it worth it to take on the bother of making pictures. If the film was bad, I'd be sorry and if it happened to be a hit, I might get dragged back into the steady grind of pictures. And I'm mortally afraid of that.

"I've had a lot of offers to go on the stage and they appealed to me, but I'd have to leave Rex and I don't think you can fool around with marriage.

"Money never has meant a thing to me. It happens I've got a trust fund that assures me a living. I don't want any more. I never went in for that kind of Hollywood life where you have to pretend to be what you're not. I've always been a natural sort of kid and have kept my old friends.

"And I don't miss acting. I'm doing poetry and I want to write my book, too. I'm happy now."

I asked Clara what kind of role would tempt her back to the screen.

"Something colorful," she said, "not the modern, gum-chewing girl. I'm sick of that. What I'd really like to do would be a story called 'Neeka of the North.' Neil Shipman wrote it. But the studios are afraid of it."

Clara and Rex are preparing to go up to their ranch and spend a month. Of course, she might [illegible] before then, but she doesn't think so. In the meantime [illegible] to prove her newfound quality [illegible] she comes to make me a [illegible] take. I believe she [illegible] her second. I know.

Benefit Bill Sunday

A midnight show, combining the stage talent of the Penn and Stanley theaters, will be held Sunday midnight in the Penn for the benefit of the National Variety Artists' Sanatorium at Saranac, N. Y.

Not only the entertainers but the stage crews, operators, ushers, ticket sellers, musicians and organists of both theaters are donating their services for the show.

The bill will open with an organ duet featuring Lois Miller and Bernie Armstrong. A grand concert by the combined orchestras of both theaters, under the direction of Harry Hoehle and Dave Brody, will follow.

The complete programs of the current stage shows in the Penn and Stanley will be given intact. The Penn portion of the bill will present George Sidney, stage and screen comedian; Terrell and Fawcett in a series of comical errors; the Cameiera Brothers, modern trumpeters; Lovalla's Arabian Stallions, in a novel act and the Twelve American Steppers, dancing girls.

The Stanley will present Pola Negri, screen star; Dick Powell, master of ceremonies; Harry Savoy, Talent and Merit; Buddy and Velma Ibsen and the Stanley High Kickers.

Tickets for the performance are now on sale at the box offices of both theaters. Admission is $1 and all seats are reserved.

Flies High

Notes About Stage and Screen

The parade of personal-appearing persons continues from Hollywood. George Sidney comes to the Penn stage today; Pola Negri to the Stanley. The new film in the Penn is "But the Flesh is Weak," starring Robert Montgomery. The Stanley has Spencer Tracy in "Sky Devils." The Stanley's stage show will mark Dick Powell's farewell.

New films come into two other theaters today, the Warner getting James Cagney's "The Crowd Roars," and the Davis offering "Explorers of the World." One of them, Harold McCracken, also appears in person.

FILMS TOMORROW

Eddie Quillan comes to the Harris tomorrow in "The Big Shot." A mystery film, "Behind Stone Walls," with Priscilla Dean, also will be shown.

"The Lost Squadron," starring Richard Dix, will begin three-days in the Sheridan Square tomorrow.

RUSSIAN PICTURE

"Road to Life," Soviet film dealing with the "wild boys" of Russia, will open Monday in the Avenue Cinema.

A midnight performance Sunday night will introduce "The Black and White Revue" in the Academy. Half of it will be offered by Negro entertainers, and the rest will be presented by the Academy's stock company.

By Mark Hellinger

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"HERE IS a story," writes Stanleigh Freborg, of Chicago, "that I have heard several times during the past few weeks. It's supposed to be an actual happening out here, but I can't vouch for that. At any rate, here it goes:

"After several years of matrimony, Joe Doakes decided that enough was enough. He had suffered headache after headache, and the future held about as much promise as your chances for the Presidency of the United States. A divorce seemed to be the only way out of all these difficulties—so Joe visited his attorney.

"'Hank,' he asserted, 'I have news that will surprise you. Maybe it will shock you. But I can't help that. I've got to get this thing off my chest.'

"Joe tugged at his collar.

"'I want a divorce,' he snapped. 'If I continue as Mildred's husband I'm afraid I'll go daffy. I want an absolute divorce.'

"'I see,' mused the lawyer. 'But may I ask what evidence you have, or on what grounds you intend to base your action?'

"The husband waved a hand.

"'That's the least,' he announced. 'She's been pulling so many shady deals that I'm lucky if I can remember all of them.'

"He leaned forward.

"'I hate to say it, Hank,' he whispered, 'but that woman is an absolute thief. Didn't know that, she was that type of woman, did you?'

"'No!' gasped the lawyer. 'You astonish me. But tell me more about it. Are you positive?'

"'Absolutely,' returned the husband. 'Listen, Hank, do you remember the time that my wife lost her diamonds? Of course you do, because you handled the insurance company in the matter. Well, she collected plenty, as you know. But she still has the diamonds!'

"'Surprising, isn't it?' But wait. Remember the time that someone broke into our apartment and stole her fur coats and gowns? Well, she collected her insurance—but she still has the coats and gowns!'

"And that's far from being all. I can give you the details of plenty of things she has pulled. I hate her, Hank. But it breaks my heart to think that the girl I once loved turned out to be a thief.'

"The attorney slapped his client on the back.

"'Don't worry about it, boy,' he advised. 'We'll have you out of this mess in less than no time. You've given me enough grounds to divorce a regiment. All we have to do now is to tell those things to a judge.'

"Joe rubbed his chin.

"The attorney frowned.

"'What are you talking about?' he demanded. 'You can't do what?'

"'I can't tell those things to a judge,' replied the client.

"The attorney asked him why.

"'I just can't,' retorted Joe doggedly. 'Do you think I want my wife to get on the stand and tell about the insurance deal I pulled on my car?'"

"DEAR MR. Hellinger," writes J. H. Doyle, of Detroit, Mich., "You always seem to be able to explain your mistakes. Some of your explanations are plausible. But many are inconceivable.

"In a recent article—I should say it was some two or three weeks ago—you used an entire column, composed of dialogue between your secretary, Mr. James Burbridge, and yourself. In this article, you referred to your secretary as Mr. Burbridge. And in parenthesis you explained that you always addressed him that way while he calls you by your first name.

"In one of last week's columns, you wrote of taking a vacation. Your secretary suggested that you go to Quebec and you printed your reply as follows:

"'Good idea, Jimmy,' I assured him. 'I think I'll take your advice.'

"Please explain, if you don't mind, how you happened to start calling him by his first name when you have always referred to him as Mr. Burbridge."

Simplest thing in the world, Mr. Doyle. All his life my secretary had been saving his money. Between my first story and my second he was handed a hot tip on Wall street. To make a sad story a little sadder, he played it.

And I call him by his first name because we are now on a common level . . .

"SO YOU'RE giving the counterfeiters a play!" writes George Plotkin. "Well, get a load of the newest of the new rackets now making the rounds:

"The action takes place in one of the East Side stores, which, though small, are often prosperous. At a time of the day when no customers are likely to be present, an official looking man strides in, calls the proprietor to one side and flashes a badge of a United States secret service agent. He then asks the awed storekeeper whether he knows about the counterfeit bills that are flooding the city, and informs him that he is trailing a band of counterfeiters suspected of operating in that vicinity.

"The next step is an order to examine the currency in the merchant's possession. From this, the 'secret service' man selects several bills that please him, examines them—and then stamps them 'counterfeit.' He brusquely informs the frightened storekeeper that he has to confiscate these bills, but that the merchant will be fully reimbursed by the government within a few days.

"All objections are squelched by the production of 'official' documents, backed up by a loud threat to call a policeman and have the storekeeper locked up for having counterfeit money in his possession.

"If the squawk is too loud, of course, the 'agent' forgets about the arrest and leaves rather hurriedly. But you'd be amazed by the number of gullible storekeepers who have recently been victimized. The last they see of their money is when the racketeer walks out with the bills that are marked only by a 'counterfeit' stamp that is readily removable." . . .

"THINGS are so tough in the legal profession," writes Al Schwartz, "that the shysters have given up the ambulances. They're now chasing rainbows!"

"DEAR MARK," writes Herman Perlow, "You may be interested in one of the best school jokes of all time. If not, so what?

"The teacher asked the class to write a composition on the subject, 'What I would do if I had $50,000.' She told her pupils to consider the subject carefully, to write it slowly and with thought, and to hand their papers in the following morning.

"The proper time arrived and the students' efforts were collected. One boy, however, sat idly by and watched. And when it came his turn, he handed up a sheet of blank paper.

"'What does this mean?' growled the teacher. 'Where is your composition?'

"The youth shrugged his shoulders.

"'That's it,' he replied. 'That's what I would do if I had $50,000!'"

SUNFLOWER SALAD — 4 oranges, ½ package dates, ¼ cup French dressing, lettuce.

Add dressing to the dates and allow mixture to stand in a cold place while preparing the oranges. Pare orange as you would an apple, cutting a continuous circular peel which removes the outside membrane surrounding the sections. Then cut out each segment separately, leaving the center membrane in one piece. Place a mound of dates in the center of a lettuce leaf and surround with radiating whole sections of orange. Add more dressing if desired. Six servings.

SAVORY COOKED LETTUCE — 6 slices bacon, 3 quarts shredded lettuce, 2 tablespoons vinegar, salt, onion juice.

Cook the bacon in a heavy skillet until brown and crisp; remove it from the fat. Add the shredded lettuce to the hot fat and stir until it wilts. Add the vinegar and bacon broken in small pieces, salt if needed, and onion juice if desired. Serve at once.

LAMB CHOPS WITH ORANGES —6 lamb, veal or pork chops, melted butter, sliced oranges, salt, pepper, paprika.

Trim fat from thick chops and dip in melted butter. Oil broiler well and broil chops 8 minutes. Turn and place a thick slice of peeled orange on each chop. Broil 8 or 10 minutes longer. Sprinkle generously with the seasonings. Serve hot. Serves six.

CHOP SUEY WITH NOODLES —2 cups diced pork, 1 cup diced veal, ½ cup chopped onions, 1 cup diced celery, 4 tablespoons fat, 3 cups water or meat stock, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Melt fat and add pork and veal. Cook slowly and stir constantly until meat is browned. Add onions, celery, stock, salt and pepper. Cook in covered pan 35 minutes. Add fried noodles.

YOU CAN'T GET GOOD RESULTS WITHOUT ACCURATE TUBES

WHEN radio tubes are made, they are adjusted to give true tone. But they get knocked and jolted in shipment and handling . . . they are shaken in usage by the vibration of powerful dynamic speakers.

Unless a tube is strong, it may lose its vital accuracy. Eveready Raytheon 4-pillar tubes have four sturdy pillars to anchor their elements in place. All other tubes use only two supports, and are easily damaged in handling and usage.

Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of 4-pillar tubes. To realize what a wonderful improvement they can make, install a set of 4-pillar tubes throughout!

SPARKLE BRILLIANTLY • LIKE DISPLAYS IN FINE SHOPS

You do it this way.

Just add a teaspoon of Climalene to your dishwater. Then use only ¼ the amount of soap or soap flakes you ordinarily use.

Climalene softens the water and so takes away that greasy feeling that is so annoying in dishwater. It's the grease that makes glasses "streaked" and dishes "dingy."

Use Climalene wherever you use water for cleaning, in the kitchen, laundry and bathroom. You'll be glad you did.

Your grocer has it in a bright, shiny, blue box, in two sizes, 12 ounces for 10c, 2 lb. for 25c.

Cuban Refiners Aided by Sugar Levy, Says Post

Larger Differential Between Raw and Finished Product Urged to Aid U. S. Plants

The Hawley-Smoot tariff has failed to provide a sufficient differential between the duty on raw and refined cane sugar, thereby encouraging refining operations of sugar in countries of origin of the raw product, heretofore latent, and now affecting the refining operations in the vicinity of New York, according to a statement yesterday by James H. Post, president of the National Sugar Refining Company.

Mr. Post's declaration included a joint statement to the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, Merchants Association of New York and the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, by the American Sugar Refining Company, Arbuckle Brothers and the National Sugar Refining Company.

Aid Is Sought

"We ask your help in correcting a condition which threatens disaster to the United States cane sugar refining industry, including sugar refineries, two of which are in Brooklyn, two in Yonkers, one in Long Island City and one in Edgewater," the joint statement declared.

"The importance of these local refineries to the commerce and industry of the New York metropolitan area is shown by the fact that during the last ten years they have paid $184,570,604.01 for wages and supplies, consumed 4,002,059 tons of coal and 2,766,284 barrels of oil, docked 4,633 steamers, handled approximately 918,000 cars of freight, melted 14,189,934 tons of raw sugar, and paid approximately $350,000,000 in customs duties.

"At the present time two of these refineries are completely shut down, and the operations of the others are seriously curtailed by an increasing flood of refined sugar pouring into the United States from Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. In 1929 imports from the islands amounted to only about 2,500,000 pounds. In 1931 they had mounted to nearly 1,000,000,000 pounds, an increase of about 4,000 per cent in six years. Refined sugar has also been received from Germany, England, Czechoslovakia, Mexico, Salvador and Haiti.

For your own satisfaction and to help keep American labor employed, insist upon Jack Frost Packaged Sugars.

Every pound of Jack Frost Sugar is refined in this country in modern, sanitary refineries, controlled by the fine standards of American health and sanitation.

If you will insist upon Jack Frost Sugar, you will be certain to get Pure Cane Sugar of uniform quality.

There's a particular kind for every purpose.

Here are the winners in the $400 TAG SOAP Prize Letter Contest

THOUSANDS of people wrote letters about TAG Soap in this interesting contest. The letters were so excellent—the reasons set forth for TAG preference so convincing—that the judges had difficulty in awarding the prizes.

While the writers of these letters gave scores of different reasons for using TAG, practically all agreed that they liked it because it is all pure soap—because it goes further, lasts longer, costs less and washes things quicker and better. And after all, that's the test of a laundry soap. If you haven't tried TAG, it will pay you to do so at the earliest possible moment—as any of the following prize winners—and thousands of other enthusiastic TAG users—will tell you.

DENY WESTERN UNION RUMOR

NEW YORK, April 15 (INS)—It was unqualifically denied at the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company here today that any amalgamation of the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph and Cable Corporation under the control of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation is being considered.

Rumors of a contemplated merger were predicated on the remarks made by Newcomb Carlton president of the Western Union at the annual meeting of the stockholders on Wednesday. He was quoted as saying the stockholders must be prepared for a change when business revived.

Columbia Gas Reduces Debts to Banks. Will Make Further Progress

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

COLUMBIA GAS and Electric Corporation has shown itself able to reduce its indebtedness to banks and to do the necessary construction work to round out its expansion program in spite of the unfavorable condition of business.

The company has just completed the task of establishing the largest natural gas system in the world. This has involved tremendous expenditures for development of new producing areas, for the construction of long distance pipe lines and for the building of distribution facilities.

Company Had Heavy Bank Indebtedness

AS A RESULT of its expansion work Columbia came to the end of 1930 with bank loans of $66,643,921. Early in 1931 $60,000,000 of debenture 5s were sold. This still left the company with indebtedness to banks and with a large portion of construction work to be completed. The close of 1931 saw the organization with bank loans of $44,176,185. Current assets at that time amounted to $29,661,- [illegible] accounts, client and accrued [illegible] of $56,632,887.

But since that time definite progress has been made in reducing indebtedness to banks and in making this possible has been the substitution of dividends payable in convertible 4½ per cent preferred stock for cash dividends on the common.

Directors yesterday declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock payable in this class of preferred. This replaced a former rate of 37½ cents and brought dividend payments well within the limits of [illegible] earnings.

Profit for 12 Months Equivalent to $1.23

IN THE 12 MONTHS ended February 29, 1932 net earnings are equivalent to $1.23 a share on the common stock. Earnings are equivalent to 1.8 times fixed charges after deducting depreciation and are equivalent to $20.50 a share on the preferred stock. In the calendar year of 1931 $1.42 a share was earned on the common. In 1930 $1.76 a share was earned.

Following the meeting of directors yesterday, Philip G. Gossler, president, said that bank loans had been reduced by about $6,500,000 since January 1. He declared that he expects funds to be available from earnings during the remainder of the year to reduce bank loans further, as well as to meet the single bond maturity of less than $1,300,000 and the construction requirements of the year of less than $9,000,000.

There are no other bond maturities except a serial requirement of $325,000 for four years until $1,875,000 falls due in 1935 and $1,469,000 in 1937. No further maturities will occur until 1941.

U. S. EXPORTS LEAD WORLD

WASHINGTON, April 15 (INS)—American exports in 1931 exceeded the total any other country and despite the economic situation the United States did not lose its position in foreign trade, Secretary of Commerce Lamont declared today.

Exports from the country were valued at $3,097,981,700, a reduction of $1,404,000,000 under 1930 and $2,260,000,000 under 1929. The loss was fairly evenly distributed among the states.

With the United States leading Germany declared the United Kingdom and took second place in world export trade, all other countries with actual loss of $2,194,000,000. Exports from the United Kingdom were $2,069,823,000 which [illegible] with $1,516,000.

Oklahoma Field Oil Flow Curbed

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 15—Daily allowable production for the Oklahoma City field for the last half of April will be about 161,000 barrels of crude oil, members of the Oklahoma Corporation Commission indicated at the close of the proration hearing involving that field. There will be a reduction of 7,000 barrels daily from the total for the first half of April.

Bond Prices Firmer on Aggressive Buying by Federal Reserve.

Reflecting the definitely aggressive program of the Reserve [illegible] aggressive buying of [illegible] investment [illegible] educational and [illegible] were the rule in the [illegible] group yesterday. Longterm [illegible] issues were [illegible] by three points on the average, while the Treasury group pushed ahead one to two points. [illegible] by the Federal which was reported in evidence on a more [illegible] scale, had a doubly [illegible] effect on the market. It not only resulted in a much broader demand but moreover resulted [illegible] something of an absence of selling as potential offerings apparently were withdrawn. Strength in governments was reflected in a slackening of pressure in the corporate list and in a much firmer tone generally.

President Suhr, of City Ice and Fuel Company, states that net earnings for the first quarter this year are in excess of those for the like period of 1931. The condition of the company and its earnings do not warrant the low market price of the stock, he declared.

Much tonnage was the large [illegible] the year, Noah H. Swayne, president of Burns Bros., stated. He said January and February both showed a loss, the second month's loss being smaller than the first month. He said the company is doing a good seasonal business. Mr. Swayne revealed that the company had met a $300,000 note maturing on February 1 of a $475,000 issue, the balance of which will mature in August. He said the company had purchased for its treasury 593 shares of its preferred stock.

Texas Gulf Sulphur Company will report a net profit for the first quarter of slightly over 65 cents on 2,540,000 shares, thus covering the quarter's 50-cent dividend requirements by a good margin. Texas Gulf reported a net of 88 cents a share in the final quarter 1931 and earned $3.52 a share for the full year.

Announcement that the truck sales of International Harvester Company in the first quarter were in excess of the total for the same period a year ago was a surprise to many in the New York financial district. The showing was made possible by the intensive advertising and sales campaign and the special inducements which were offered to prospective buyers. Similar efforts are being made to develop other branches of the company's business in supplying agriculturalists and the outcome of these attempts will be of vast interest.

Despite disappointing earnings for the first quarter, a considerable part of the selling which forced Bethlehem Steel preferred down so sharply was attributed to liquidation of a large block of stock by an estate. The corporation itself now owns 70,000 shares of the issue which was purchased in the open market.

MARKET TURNS DISTINCTLY STRONG

Stocks After Wobbling Somewhat Start Climb—Utilities' Advance Wide

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP.)—The securities markets generally developed a distinctly better tone today.

Both stocks and bonds extended the recovery which started toward the close of the previous session. The receivership for Middle West Utilities was regarded in brokerage circles as having cleared the atmosphere considerably and financial quarters were encouraged by the various credit expansion indicated in the weekly Federal Reserve statement.

The utilities made striking gains in the stock market, particularly some of the thinly traded preferred issues. The list wobbled somewhat for a time in the morning but turned distinctly strong by midday. North American preferred gained 5 points and the electric power and light senior issues about 3. Peoples Gas continued its climb with an advance of several points. Gains of 2 to 3 points appeared in Consolidated Gas Public Service of New Jersey, American and Foreign preferred, Pacific Gas, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Allied Chemical, National Biscuit, American Tobacco B and Colorado Fuel, while advances of a point or so were numerous, embracing United States Steel and other leaders. American Telephone recovered an early drop of nearly 3. Auburn dropped 5 to a new low and failed to come back much.

The financing problems of Middle West Utilities and the other Insull holding companies had injected an oppressive element of uncertainty into the financial markets for some time. Sweeping declines in the securities of these holding companies had already discounted receivership, so that actual news of the action in Chicago brought considerable relief. Furthermore the steps taken by Electric Bond and Share to scotch rumors about its financial position including announcement of a one-year extension of subsidiary loans tended to fortify the utility list generally. The gains in the electric power and light issues reflected extension of the bank loans of its subsidiary, United Gas until July of 1933, and the American and Foreign Power issues reflected extension of that company's loan until the autumn of 1933.

While American telephone's net for the first quarter of $38,699,204, amounting to approximately $2.07 a share was better than unofficial estimates in Wall street had indicated, the fact that some $5,000,000 of its income reflected dividends received from, but not earned by subsidiaries apparently caused a little early selling. Nevertheless, several quarters had looked for a showing of less than $1.90 a share.

The Federal Reserve's weekly statement showed that it had actually added about $100,000,000 of United States government to its portfolio, injecting that much credit into the open market.

WHEAT STEADY AT DECLINE

CHICAGO, April 15.—Likelihood of some moisture relief in drought territory led to early downturns of grain values today. Indications, however, were for continued absence of rain throughout districts where moisture was most needed. Opening at ⅛ to 1 cent decline, wheat afterward held near the initial limits. Corn started ¼-⅜ off and subsequently steadied.

Giving an advantage to wheat bears were setbacks in Liverpool quotations, a development attributed to profit taking in anticipation of more favorable weather reports from the United States winter wheat belt. Estimates were current that France would need to import 25,000,000 bushels of wheat before harvest of the new French crop. There were also suggestions that Germany might cut her wheat import duty ½.

Argentina Plans Big Internal Loan

WASHINGTON, April 15.—A surplus of 9,000,000 paper pesos is estimated by the Argentine government for 1932, congressional finance committee fixing preliminary expenditures at 840,000,000 paper pesos and revenues at 849,000,000 paper pesos.

An internal loan of 400,000,000 paper pesos is recommended with permission to issue currency to the nominal extent of 85 per cent of the bonds.

Some Mothers Do Not Want Daughters to Marry

What'll Arlita do? She loves Jim, and he loves her, but mamma swears that if they marry she'll kill herself!

No, there's nothing wrong with Jim. He's a little young, maybe, but he's a fine fellow. Folks like and respect him. He has a good job and a bright future. Yet—

What's the answer? Get in on Arlita's broadcast and maybe you can tell us.

"Dear Sally:

"Please help me, won't you? I don't know what to do.

"I am 19. My Dad died when I was a baby, and Mother has worked hard all these years for my brother and myself. He is married now.

"About three and a half years ago I met Jim and fell in love with him and he with me. Of course, we were pretty young then, so when Mother objected we quit seeing each other. I gave him up thinking she would be happy if I did. I realized I owed something to her, so I tried to please her, but it seems to be futile.

"Now just a few weeks ago I met Jim again and we both realized we loved each other more than ever. He is everything in life to me. He is a boy of good character. Everyone respects and likes him. He is well educated and ambitious, and although he is only 20 he acts and thinks older. He has a responsible position and works hard.

THREATENS SUICIDE

But Mother insists I should marry a man ten years older than myself. And this is the only possible thing she can have against Jim.

"I don't know what to do. Why she even threatens to commit suicide if I marry him. She is quite good-looking herself, and has a good position. She is not dependent on me. She claims that my happiness is the only thing she is considering.

"Do you think she would get over it if I married Jim after she saw how happy I was? I am sure I would be happy. I have been a secretary downtown for several years and have come in contact with many men, so I know a little about judging them and Jim is as fine a boy as you would meet anywhere.

Ma, I give him up? Do you think mother would go so far as to do what she threatens if I don't? And why do you think she is like that? ARLITA

PUTTING ON AN ACT

Must you give him up to please mamma?

No youngster. Not if you're sure you love him and that he really is as fine as you say, and if you're both level-headed enough to take on the responsibility of double harness.

For marriage is a responsibility, kid. It isn't all moonlight and roses, even with the finest of partners, and both of you are very young. If you are willing to face the trials and bumps and chuckhole together with sense and humor and courage then go to it.

And if you do, will mamma jump out of a window somewhere? Or take arsenic? Nope. Not a chance! She is just putting on an act to get her own way and to keep you tied to her apron strings.

But before you get mad about that, let's sit down and figure out how she got that way. You see, for a long time you have been her baby. She worked hard for you, was responsible for you, ruled you and liked it. And now, when she sees you growing up and away from her, it hurts. So, instead of letting you go, she is trying desperately to keep you with her.

But you must go to your own life and your own fireside. You mustn't let her cripple you through her foolishness. Life needs you just as it once needed her, and she went out to meet it. So if you're honestly ready for marriage go ahead. She'll probably put on a riot, but she'll get over it, and be proud of you.

'Don't Be Afraid to Dare Life's Dangers Alone!' Advises Fay King

By FAY KING

Most persons seem to dislike nothing so much as being alone. They will go most anywhere, and be bored by anyone rather than be alone.

Yet nothing so captures the imagination of the world as one on an adventure alone.

It was because Lindy flew alone that the whole world stood by and went mad with enthusiasm over his success.

Robinson Crusoe alone on his island has entertained generations, and De Foe was inspired to write this story from the actual experience of a sailor named Alexander Selkirk, who spent four years on the island of Juan Fernandez.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

New Method Fights Old Malady

Dr. Copeland

Asthma has been known to mankind for centuries. During recent years great strides have been made in its treatment and cure. This is well because of all the distressing conditions encountered in life, asthma is one of the most troublesome.

Too often persons afflicted with asthma believe that the disease is incurable. In consequence they do not seek medical attention. This is unfortunate.

A complete physical examination by a physician is necessary before relief and successful treatment can be expected. In the examination all abnormalities are noted and where possible they are corrected. Habits of diet and manner of living are carefully considered.

Unhygienic conditions or any habit which tends to reduce the resistance of the patient must be overcome. Focal infections, such as diseased nasal sinuses, teeth, tonsils, appendix, gall bladder or intestines, require immediate attention. Please bear in mind that the treatment of asthma is not complete unless these steps are taken.

It is now known that many attacks of asthma are caused by sensitivity to certain proteins. These proteins may be in the food, in the clothing or in the house furnishings. Their effects vary with different individuals. Skin tests are used to determine the substance which causes the attacks.

One of the methods of controlling this disease is it's treatment by what is called "desensitization." To this end injections are made under the skin, or by scratching the skin. Various substances are used. They are classified according to groups.

The most common group is the "inhalent group." This includes the things which may be taken in by breathing. The materials used in testing are taken from the chicken, duck, goose, cat, dog, horse, rabbit, sheep and goat.

Many persons are sensitive to the emanations from certain plants and weeds. The offending one can be determined by the skin tests. The most common plants in this group are timothy, plaintain and ragweed. The different foods can be tested for in a similar manner, as well as house dust, occupational dust, tobacco and other irritants to which the individual may be exposed.

When the sensitivity is determined and contact with the offending substance is removed, freedom from asthmatic attacks results. In certain cases where the sensitivity is due to unknown proteins, protective injections have been used. These are given at weekly intervals and, in some cases the results have been gratifying.

Study has been given a large number of cases of asthma thought to be caused by sensitivity to house dust. Such dust contains a number of elements, some of which are capable of producing asthmatic attacks. The sensible thing is to live in an environment free from dust, but this is often impossible. To overcome the trouble an extract has been made from house dust collected in a carpet sweeper. It is claimed that its use has resulted in relief. This sounds astonishing, but the poor asthmatic will grasp at anything.

Because of our greater knowledge of asthma, permanent relief and cure can be brought about in many cases. Treatment over a long period may be necessary. But do not become discouraged, because the result is well worth the time and effort.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Announcing the Engagement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What is the proper wording for an engagement announcement card?

2. Is it proper for the girl to give her boy friend a gift when she becomes engaged? If so, what would be proper for her to give?

3. Is it necessary to write a special card to your girl friend's parents, if you are sending her one? G. Z.

1. There isn't a proper wording for an engagement announcement card, for it is not proper to send this formal kind of card to announce your engagement. The correct thing for you to do is to tell your relatives and those close friends who live near enough for you to tell, and to write notes to those relatives and friends who live far away. Don't send cards.

2. Yes, you may give your fiance a present if you wish. A wallet, a cigaret case or a cigaret lighter, a pocket or wrist watch, a key-case . . . anything really of this kind.

3. If you announce your engagement as I suggested above then you probably would either tell these parents of your girl friend, or write your friend the news.

Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A few days ago a cousin of mine called me up and said that she would bring two women friends of hers to my home to play bridge. They came, and we spent a very pleasant evening. Now I want to know if I should try to meet them again, or just forget them. I had as you see, not invited them, but I did enjoy their visit. Now am I supposed to do something next, or are they supposed to take the next step? I would like very much to know.

READER

The next social move they will probably make and they should since you were hostess at this impromptu party. However, in these informal days, you do not need to stand on ceremony, unless you wish to, and it would be quite all right to invite them to your home to some general party that you may be giving in the near future. That will indicate that you are interested in the friendship, since this will be your own direct invitation, in distinction to the indirect invitation before, through your cousin. But if you do extend this invitation, then you should wait, I suggest, for them to invite you after that.

Mr. C. S. Lockridge played the following hand beautifully. But how many tricks was it possible for him to make against perfect defense?

Z and I-No Trump. Y jumped into 3-Spades over A's pass. Z raised to 4-Spades, and Mr. Lockridge jumped into 6-Spades. The opening lead was the J of hearts, which dummy won with the Ace. Three rounds of trumps dropped all opposing spades, leaving the 10 in the declaring hand and the J in dummy. Upon the third round of trumps B discarded the 2 of diamonds.

Three rounds of diamonds were next taken, both A and B following suit on each round, dropping all remaining cards of that suit. The last step in the process of stripping hands was to take two heart tricks. The first of these two tricks was won by the declarer's K, the second heart trick was taken by dummy's Q, to leave the lead in dummy.

Here is an end play problem, just the same as you find in these "clear-a-way" Spades are trumps. Z is to lead. How many tricks can Y-Z win against the best play of A-B?

If you lead a club at once and finesse the declarer's Q, Y will have to lose to B's K, and later on he will have to lose another club trick to either B's J or A's 10, which will put the contract down by one trick.

If Y first takes a round of trumps to force discards, it will not help his cause. Then B can strip down to the K-J of clubs and the 10 of hearts.

The only way that Y can win three of the remaining four tricks is as follows: lead the 9 of clubs; if A plays his 10, overplay with dummy's Q; in case A plays normally, and declines to cover with his 10, let the 9 run. In the latter event B must play his J to win the trick; if the 10 and Q are played B must win with his K. In either event B will be in the lead and his side cannot win another trick. If B leads back a club, both tricks will be won by Y's cards of that suit. If B leads his heart, dummy can trump while Y discards his only club that fails to be the highest remaining card of that suit. Mr. Lockridge played the hand as described, and won his twelve tricks.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

White of egg makes a refreshing complexion mask, acts as a skin tightener. You fluff it slightly with a fork, spread it upon freshly bathed skin surface, let it remain until the flesh feels tight and drawn. Then lave away with tepid water and give the face a three-minute pressing with an ice cube, after which treatment the witch hazel bottle is brought forth to contribute its part to the beautifying program.

Has it occurred to you that your nose likes to draw in long whiffs of fresh air? That is part of the job for which it was created. Shallow breathers get narrow pinched noses. Not only that, but pale, grey complexions and slumped in chests. By breathing deeply the physical machinery is helped to function normally. Roses bloom in cheeks, the digestive organs behave properly, the body is carried more splendidly.

PIRATE HEAD FINDS IMPROVED SPIRIT

NO MATTER WHERE the Pirates may finish in the National League pennant race this year, Owner William

W. J. Benswanger

E. Benswanger is convinced that the Bucs have a better spirit and higher morale on the field this spring and predicts fighting ball for the Rooks that will make them look good even in defeat.

IT ALL DEPENDS on the point of view. While the Cards batted apparent [illegible] Wednesday the Pirates were [illegible] batting when the Bucs came [illegible] the eighth and ninth rounds yesterday it was [illegible] batting.

It's just like the old question of batting. When the home club is popping them up or sending feeble rollers to the infielders it's weak hitting in the eyes of the fans. But when the visiting team is doing the very same thing it is attributed to superior work on the part of the home pitcher.

BY COMING RIGHT [illegible] Carl Fischer, a left-handed pitcher, [illegible] innings. Manager Gibson [illegible] when they [illegible] against [illegible]

ROGERS HORNSBY complains of unfair treatment in the Chick Hafey proceedings. He says that the Card bosses asked him to make an offer for Hafey, that he named three or four Cubs as not for sale and told the St. Louis people they could select any combination of players they wanted from among the remaining Bruins in exchange for Chick, but that without agreeing to this proposal they turned around and traded Hafey to Cincinnati. In Boston the view is that Hornsby was only getting a dose of his own medicine. Bill McKechnie says that last December Hornsby asked to make a bid for Hack Wilson, took an offer of three players under consideration with a promise of an early reply, and then swapped Hack to the Cards without another word to the Braves.

Ernest Orsatti

SPEAKING OF CARDINAL [illegible] trades there [illegible] St. Louis [illegible] other club. The [illegible] drick and has [illegible] deal for the [illegible]

Brooklyn has out a bid for Orsatti and it is said proposals have been invited from other clubs. Just why the Dodgers should be interested in Orsatti, a lefthand hitter, is rather puzzling inasmuch as Max Carey already has no fewer than four outfielders who are left-side swingers in O'Doul, Frederick, Cohen and Boone, against only two righthanders in Wilson and Howell.

IF DETROIT'S NEW [illegible] Harry Davis failed to [illegible] the Toronto [illegible] Dale Alexander make good for the Tigers he will keep [illegible] major league name at that position.

For as a member of the New York, Pittsburgh and Louis [illegible] in the National League and of the Athletics in the American, the original Harry Davis made a record that establishes him among the most prominent players in the big show.

IN COMING TO the Pirates, Davis figured in an unusual deal. He was traded to the Pittsburgh club between games of a double-header at old Exposition Park on July 25, 1896. Connie Mack, then manager of the Bucs, and Arthur Irwin, boss of the New York Giants, got together after the first game and put through a deal whereby Mack obtained Davis and $1,000 fancy money in these days, in exchange for First Baseman Jake Beckley. Mack himself played first base in Beckley's place in the second game, and later made Davis the regular gateway guardian. Harry remained with the locals until July of 1898, when he was released to Louisville. He rejoined Mack when the American League invaded Philadelphia in 1901, playing first base for the A's until Stuffy Melanis became the regular at that post in 1911.

"Position in the league race will not be considered in any way in determining the winner of the prize," Manley said. "The decision will be based on general all-around hustling appearance and conduct of the players, proper shown by the coaches, speed in changing positions between innings and the attitude of managers in not delaying games while changing pitchers and other players."

FOLLOWERS OF TRACK [illegible] will be [illegible]

They're copying him in this country now in a new way. Studying running styles through the medium of photographs is the latest means of improving footracing form. Cliff Halstead, crack miler of the University of Southern California is confident he will do better than 4:20 this year because he obtained a number of pictures of Nurmi and Willie Ritola and studied their leg action, especially the kick on the back foot. He says it worked on it hard, has it down pat now, and declares it is the best system in the world. He also has some pictures of himself in action, so that he can see his mistakes and correct them. Cliff says he learned more from the photos of the Finns than any coach could have taught him.*

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY—ELECTED BY A SINGLE VOTE—In September, 1930, the supervisor of the Third District, Black Hawk County, Ia., resigned and the vacancy was filled by appointment. The law provides that such an appointee shall hold office until the next election, that is until November 4. Due to an oversight, the appointed supervisor, filing his candidacy for a full term beginning January 1, 1931, failed to file for the balance of the year 1930. A single vote named John Boelter for the short term, and the Board of Supervisors announced that Boelter was elected by that solitary vote, to serve from November 4 until December 31, 1930. A RECORD CONVICTION—Prior to the establishment of the Spanish Republic, the law permitted convictions on an unlimited number of counts, the sentences to run consecutively. The result was that sentences of several hundred years of imprisonment were not infrequent. With the overturn of the monarchy a new criminal code was adopted, limiting the number of consecutive convictions to three. Teodore Redondo, of Valladolid, who recently was convicted of 442 charges of forgery, 218 charges of obtaining money under false pretenses and 25 assorted charges, was sentenced to only nine years imprisonment. In the olden days, Redondo would have been liable to about 2,000 years in jail. Such a sentence was meted out to an alcalde of a little Spanish town under the reign of Alfonso XIII. THE MARVELS OF A MODERN IMPLEMENT—In a paper read before the twelfth annual convention of the American Society for Steel Treatment, it was declared that more than 137,000 pieces of metal and other substances are required for the construction of a single telephone instrument. Twenty-one thousand kinds of apparatus, containing 137,000 different pieces, are used to manufacture a telephone instrument. Heat treatment is necessary on all of the metals, necessitating 42 different kinds of burning.

ST. LOUIS, April 15.—Before leaving here tonight for Cincinnati and the second series of the still very young National League pennant chase, Pittsburgh Pirates hope to even matters for the campaign with the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals and will go into the first game of the series with the Reds this afternoon with that idea in mind.

Manager George Gibson elated, as are his players, over the fine triumph yesterday, will send young Bill Swift against the Birds this afternoon. Pilot Gabby Street, of the Cards has Sheriff Johnson groomed for duty. The Pirates won yesterday's game, 5 to 4.

BUCS RALLY TO WIN

The Pirates were not to be denied in their third contest with the World Champions and pounded the ball to all corners of the field to score their initial victory of the season.

It was the Pirates' turn to rally late in the game to eke out with a triumph and they came through in great fashion. The Cards set the pace throughout the contest only to have the Bucs hammer out enough hits in eighth and ninth innings to win.

Corsair hits spoke often as they romped to victory, a total of 15 safeties being made off the deliveries of Paul Derringer during the afternoon.

Pirate pitching on the other hand was just the opposite. The Card batters proved rather easy for Bill Harris and Larry French. Harris limited them to four hits until he was removed for a pinch-hitter in the fifth. French allowed to the knoll in the third half of the fifth and after being clouted for two hits he settled down and retired the Birds in order in the next two innings.

FRENCH'S HIT TIMELY

French, besides pitching brilliantly, also proved to be the man of the hour on the attack. Larry faced Derringer on two occasions and singled both times. In the ninth he singled, stole second base, went to third on L. Waner's single and scored on Paul Waner's double.

Gus Suhr and Lloyd Waner tied for the honor of leading the Buccaneer attack, although Suhr, with a double and two singles, had a slight edge. Suhr also tallied three times.

The Bucco first baseman has been setting quite a pace in the matter of batting since the season opened. Suhr has faced Cardinal hurlers on 12 occasions and has hit safely seven times.

L. WANER STARS

Lloyd Waner, after getting three doubles in Wednesday's game, continued to specialize, getting three singles in five times at bat yesterday.

Mastro, Sight Bad, Gives Up Boxing

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 15 (AP).—Earl Mastro, once a leading featherweight title contender, announced he had quit the ring forever after being forced to stop in the ninth round of a 10-round battle with Varias Milling, Los Angeles featherweight, last night.

Mastro, drubbed for eight rounds, walked over to Referee Toby Irwin in the middle of the ninth and said:

"I've got enough. Give him the fight." He said he had sinus trouble and was threatened by blindness.

"This is the end of Earl Mastro," he said.

GOLFERS MEET NEXT WEEK

Officers will be elected and schedules for the different club tournaments will be arranged at the annual meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association to be held at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association Thursday evening of next week.

Officers nominated by the nominating committee are as follows: R. Dunn, Oakmont, president; W. Smith, Greensburg, vice president; George A. Ormiston, secretary; James W. Alcorn, treasurer. Those elected to the executive committee are: Fred Wrigley, Homestead; Edward F. Moore, New Kensington, and Thomas S. Jamison, Hannastown.

Selection by the nominating committee is tantamount to election. The members of the executive committee are to serve for three years. Ormiston and Rankin are the only holdovers of office.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The Preakness winner will not hold the attention of the horse racing fans in the Kentucky Derby this year for the very good reason that the Maryland classic comes a week later than the Derby instead of approximately a week before, as in the past. . . But the Derby winner of May 7 will try to make a grand slam in the Preakness. . . Only two horses ever have won both events. Sir Barton and Gallant Fox. . . Top Flight and Jack On are the favorites this year, at 6-1 in the betting and 4-1 in the Pimlico odds. What becomes of the immense fortunes made by the stars of the ring? . . . You don't think for a moment that Georges Carpentier would be trying a comeback at his age if he didn't need the money?

And the protest of Dave Kerr, former Cleveland Celtics star, to the many already registered against the changes in the basketball rules for next season. . . Dave is recognized as one of the best basketball men in the country. . . Here's what he has to say.

"I think the change in the rules committee in putting the burden of the stalling on the offensive team is a step in the right direction. The blame should be placed on the team behind in the scoring.

"Basketball plays often is smart basketball. It is not done so much to kill time as it is to draw the defense into such a position that it is possible to make a play or secure a shot reasonable close to the basket. . . Most basketball plays results when the offensive team is leading in the scoring and as the first requisite of basketball is possession of the ball the defensive team is doing the stalling when it makes no effort to secure the ball. If the offensive team is trailing or behind in the score it has to take the ball into the backcourt for safe keeping at times then and only then is it guilty of stalling.

"The new ruling greatly benefits teams employing a zone or set defense and would encourage coaches to use this style of play, and there is nothing, in my opinion, that slows down a game more than a zone defense. Therefore, I think the game will be slower instead of being speeded up, as was the intention."

Can you imagine what will happen on the thousands of undersized courts throughout the country, where it is almost impossible to work the ball past the center of the court and keep it there, if a man is in position to shoot, which the 10 second ruling grants, against a zone defense.

The rule will force the offense to take shots that are not hurried and embarrass their possession of the ball."

The course over which the A. M. A. full distance Marathon race will be run in Erie on April 30 is one of the best in the country. . . You can take the word of John T. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the Alleghenies Mountain Association of the A. A. U. for this. . . The runners will traverse a route over the peninsula and will have the benefit of the lake breeze most of the way.—HARRY KECK.

TROUT SEASON OPENS TODAY

Thousands of men who appreciate the lure of mountain air, the song of a fast-flowing stream and the matchless thrill of trying to reel in a fighting trout came into their own today with the official opening of the fishing season in Pennsylvania.

True, the bass season does not open in the Keystone State until July 1, but for the fishermen who prefer a battle of wits to a big catch the season is officially open just as soon as the gates to the trout streams are thrown open.

Because of the fact that Pittsburgh is only a few hours' drive from mountain streams, trout fishing is extremely popular with sport-men here. Ligonier was the goal of many local anglers as they rolled out of the city last night and early today.

O. M. Deibler, of Greensburg, commissioner of fisheries, has worked tirelessly to improve the sport and a very successful season is anticipated.

BROWNS BLANK CHISOX; TIGERS BEAT TRIBE

Associated Press

Dan Howley, the sartorially correct manager of the Cincinnati Reds, already is playing in tough luck and the National League season is just three days old.

The Reds' second game of the campaign cost them the services of Ernie Lombardi, the catcher with the rifle arm, and of George Grantham, veteran second baseman whose chief baseball virtue is his timely hitting.

TWO STARS HURT

Lombardi stopped a foul tip with his right index finger and the broken bone that ensued will keep him on the bench for at least 10 days. Grantham twisted his ankle and probably won't play for a week.

But even with these two cogs out for repairs, the Reds punched out a 5-3 decision over the Chicago Cubs yesterday and made it two out of three in the series. They did it in the simple experiment of batting around in the first inning.

In the only other National League struggle of the day, the Pittsburgh Pirates pounded Paul Derringer for 15 hits and trimmed the world champion St. Louis Cardinals 5-4.

BROWNS BEAT CHISOX

In the American League the St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers broke into the winning column for the first time.

Sam Gray allowed only five hits as the Browns turned back the Chicago White Sox 3-0, the second shutout of the major league season.

Whitlow Wyatt had the better of a pitching duel with Willis Hudlin and Detroit defeated Cleveland 3-1. Wyatt allowed four hits and struck out seven.

Weather conditions held other American League clubs.

TERRA ALTA, W. Va., April 15. (AP)—A system throughout the Northern West Virginia section will attend a football clinic in Terra Alta tomorrow. Cam Henderson, head coach at Davis and Elkins College, will preside over a discussion of new rules.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—(AP)—Marking the second break in the chain procedure that started winning pen nants in 1929, Connie Mack has announced that Roger Cramer will take the veteran Bing Miller's post in right field in the regular lineup of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

BOSTON, April 15.—Well, the Phillies licked the A's for the championship of Philadelphia, so now the A's have to turn around and win the championship of the world to break even. They say, "Love, you're a funny thing," but it's got nothing on baseball.

Nick Altrock

Hoover offered to work as President this year for $74,999 less than his contract calls for. The last I heard, Col. Ruppert was urging Babe Ruth to be a dollar-a-year man, but Babe has astigmatism and can't see it.

Well, folks, the 1932 season looks like the same old story. The clubs all train to hold down hard-hitting batters and smack high-grade pitchers and then we find the toughest gus of all to buck is the Weather Man.

DETROIT WINS OVER GRAYS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 15.—Sensational fielding and mid-season pitching featured Detroit's 3 to 2 win over the Homestead Grays in an exhibition game here yesterday. Both clubs played errorless ball.

The second game of the exhibition series will be played at Parkersburg today with the third game carded for Pittsburgh tomorrow. The score by innings:

Monessen to Meet California Eleven

MONESSEN, Pa., April 15.—Monessen and California High schools, bitter Monongahela Valley rivals in football, have agreed to play a grid game at Husher Field Friday, May 19. The teams have not met on the gridiron in three years.

California High has been anxious for a game for the past two years, during football season challenging the Greyhounds after they won W. P. I. A. L. championship in 1930. The game will be played under floodlights. Coach Preston Ditty expects to start active spring drills next Monday.

Harridge to Probe Husing Broadcast

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP)—President Will Harridge of the American League will investigate fully protests by Umpires George Moriarty and William Dineen over Ted Husing's radio broadcast of the Washington-Boston game last Monday.

Moriarity and Dineen said letters from listeners-in indicated that Husing pronounced baserunners safe and then told his audience the umpires changed their decisions when he saw the players waved out.

BOYTON TO PROMOTE

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Joe Boyton, Madison Square Garden boxing impresario, announced today that he would promote a ten-round bout between Max Schmeling, German heavyweight champion, and Jack Sharkey, former world's heavyweight champion, in the Garden June 16.

BARBEE SLATED TO RETURN TO HOLLYWOOD

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—(AP)—Dave Barbee, now a member of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is likely to return to the Hollywood Stars about May 16, it was revealed today by Oscar Vitt, Star skipper.

Barbee hit 47 home runs and batted .322 last season with the Stars.

Vitt said he had received word from George Gibson, Pirate boss, that Barbee's return to the Pacific Coast League was contemplated for May 15, when big league teams must trim their rosters.

Second Round Title Tourney Bouts Set

DETROIT, April 15.—(AP)—Scotty Monteith has announced the pairings for the second round of his boxing tournament to select the world's featherweight champion.

The card, scheduled for April 22, will bring together Fidel La Barba, former flyweight champion, and Petey Sarron, Birmingham, Ala., southern featherweight titleholder, in one 10-round bout.

In the other, Johnny Pena, New York, will meet Miltoni Zuniga, of Mexico.

The winners of these bouts will meet Tommy Paul and Frankie Wallace to determine the finalists for the championship fight, of 15 rounds, to be held in May.

Ernie Nevers Gets Post at Stanford

PALO ALTO, Cal., April 15.—(AP)—Ernie Nevers, former Stanford University athletic star, has been appointed assistant director of physical education for one year beginning with the fall term.

Nevers also will act as an aide to Glenn (Pop) Warner, head football coach. His remuneration was not announced.

Between Rounds

Freddie Edwards, stablemate of Ted Lamar, says he is ready to box Jimmy Bennett, who is now with a struggle for a return bout. Edwards has been doing well lately in Ohio and has been matched to box King Tut a few nights from Cleveland, May 6, with Babe Townsend, Hugo Alberto and Midget Mike O'Dowd appearing before Dolando in feature preliminaries.

Young Rudy today issued a challenge directed at Jimmy Belmont. Rudy, a favorite with the local fans, has boxed Ted "Kid" Lewis, Tiger Joe Randall, Joe Trippe, Freddie Edwards, Freddie Fitzgerald and other well-known foes.

Mr. Tobin has been substituted for Mayor Sherman as the opponent of Fay Tigar at Duquesne Monday night instead of Thursday night.

Promoter Jules Bock will attempt to complete the card today for the boxing show at the Motor Terrace next Wednesday. He has signed to feature a double match of two 10-round bouts with Tiger Joe Randall and Billy Rose on top and Leon Christiano and Steve Seusch in the other. Kiddie Price and Young Lowe, Italian lightweights, have the opener.

Chillysauce

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Gus Suhr's consistent batting in the Pirates' three games with the Cardinals stands out as one of the highest topics in the play of the Pittsburghers. Apparently George Gibson has been successful in improving the style of the big firstsacker who was a disappointment at the plate last year. There was no question of Suhr's power to drive a ball at any time since he joined the club, but he was fooled by the smart pitchers last year.

When the enemy sharpshooters develop midsummer control Gus may have to be on the alert to stay in the pace which marked his first season in the majors. Suhr batted .280 in 1930, his first season up, but he drove in more than 100 runs, a feat beyond many cleanup batters who outhit the Dutchman in the matter of percentage.

Thousands of Pirate followers are pulling for Gus, who is a likeable chap and one for whom disciplinary rules are unnecessary. Moreover, the fans realize the local club is fortunate in having such a fine defensive first baseman.

Suhr may emulate Lefty Grimm as he strives to become a real swatter in the big show. Grimm batted only .227 for the Buccos as he played his first full season, in 1920. Of course he had to show improvement if he were to remain at the post. Fred Clarke spent some time with the Pirates at Hot Springs in 1921, and with Manager Gibson, Clarke worked to correct flaws in Grimm's batting.

In due time Lefty's tutors had him timing the ball in the correct manner. He added almost 50 points on his hitting in 1921 and in 1922 he missed the .300 circle by only a few points. In 1923, Lefty proved one of the greatest batters in the National League, he finished the year with a mark of .345.

Grimm rose to great heights in the last campaign with a batting mark of .331 as he vied with the premier hitters of the circuit. All the while Lefty has ranked as a topliner in fielding. Suhr's fielding is not as gripping as are the movements of Grimm, but Gus obtains results of a similar order. All he has to do is to be better than a fair batsman to remain in the majors.

PEABODY WINS IN INAUGURAL SCHOOL FRAY

Inaugural play in the City Scholastic Baseball League was curtailed somewhat yesterday due to cold weather and soggy playing fields, a single contest being staged to usher in a new campaign.

Under far from satisfactory conditions, Peabody and Allegheny Vocational met on the latter's diamond, the East Enders winning, 4 to 3, in a closely contested seven-inning game. Peabody went into the lead in the first inning, thanks to a home run by Gee with a man on base, but the Vocational hitters tied the count with three tallies of their own in the second.

In the first of the seventh Zeppenfield, Peabody catcher, slid home with what proved to be the winning run, and then, with three Vocational men on base and one out in the last half of the inning, this same Zeppenfield and Pizzuto, the third base guardian, teamed up on a double play that saved the game for Peabody. The game today between Rankin and Shady Side at Shady Side has been called off. The score:

The Schenley High School baseball team won the City championship last night in the Fifth Avenue gymnasium, defeating Fifth, 15-10, 3-15 and 15-9. Allderdice copped the junior championship, downing Peabody, 15-10, 15-4. The matches last night completed two weeks of tournament competition.

RHEAM TO LEAD STRONG TEAM IN LEAGUE

By TOM BIRKS

With Cy Rheam and George Miller calling a special practice session for Reliance Legion candidates tomorrow afternoon at the Belleau field fans following the fortunes of City League teams will be able to get a line on the force that Rheam will have when he starts out after the crown now worn by Dormont.

Miller is a great admirer of Bill Hurley, coach of baseball at the Diamond. Hurley produced one of the best semi-pro pitchers in the district and did pitch a ball last season, but was he busy helping Bill Gormley and Dutch Spencer on the mound for the Lifers. Rheam also has a new prospect in Walter Grance Hailing from Sewickley who is reported to have been quite a star in collegiate baseball.

Rheam will have a pair of catchers ready to fight it out. Sparrow of last season's team will be back along with Cunningham former Edgewood star. Gus Dinson and Stephen from Fairmont.

All of the town's players May play. Quinn Smith Miller Seibel Bennet Snaps Heyl and Ski Dayman will be back and should have little trouble holding the regulars.

A pair of promising young players from the Belleau district also will be with the club.

There is little doubt that the veteran Rheam probably one of the keenest baseball men in the district can build a great club. One thing is sure temperamental ball players will not get to first base with the former Federal League star. Rheam knows all of the tricks of the trade.

LINKS OPENINGS SET BACK

Inclement weather the early part of the week has forced a postponement of the opening of the public golf courses owned by the City and County.

The official opening of the Schenley Park links originally scheduled for this morning has been deferred to Saturday. Director of Public Works Edward O. Litz Director Lang announced the postponement yesterday when it was discovered that the unusable weather has left the Lanark pool in condition. The course will be opened for public play when the conditions improve Lang announced.

The North and South County Parks also will remain closed until the weather improves. These courses were to be opened tomorrow.

Permits for play at the county-owned parks will be available within 10 days it was announced by the officials.

VOSS HOCKEY SERIES ACE

Carl Voss Buffalo center who won national scoring honors in the International Hockey League's regular season lost none of his scoring punch in the little playoffs according to records for the championship series released today.

Voss gathered one goal and was credited with five assists to pace the scorers in the playoffs and Lloyd Gross and Ronnie Martin his front line mates who placed second and fifth respectively in the regular season accumulated runner-up honors with Earl Robinson of Windsor, with five points each.

Rockburn Detroit defense man who was the most-penalized player in the loop during the regular season retained that distinction in the playoffs.

Synopsis

Lola Carewe, night club habitue, receives a death threat. New Years Eve. Previously her dog and parrot were mysteriously killed. District Attorney Merle K. Dougherty suspects Lola of being the "brains" of the jewel thief ring that has baffled the police. Although her husband, Crawford Colford, died practically penniless, Lola lives in luxury. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt places a guard in Lola's penthouse apartment warning her that she must not be alone in a room at any time. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, Chung, the butler, Eunice, the maid, and Vincent Rowland, an attorney, are present. In the living room the commissioner finds a bag belonging to Christine Quires, Lola's guest. It evidently had been used that night, yet Lola informs Colt that Christine is at the Lion's Paw, a roadhouse where Lola was to have joined her. Colt is surprised to find Mrs. Carewe's room in strange contrast to the surrounding wealth. Lola's own boudoir is a gaudy contradiction of the living rooms elegance. Lola refuses to reveal the identity of the young man whose photograph adorns her dresser. Against orders she enters the guest room alone. A scream follows. Rushing in Colt finds her on the floor unconscious. Dr. Hugh Baldwin, a friend, diagnoses the case as a heart attack.

Now Go On

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Changes Mind About Spending Night in Studio

It seemed hours, although it was but a second or two before Lillian spoke in tones that held such genuine enthusiastic admiration that my tense nerves relaxed and the hot dryness left my throat.

"Girl, you've done it!" I was afraid it was too much to be hoped for that you could pull a fourth act which would measure up to the other three. I know old Phil was nervous about it, too, but you've achieved it, and I'll broadcast to the dramatic universe that it's some stuff you've pulled. It would be a nifty one for an old stager in the game, but for a novice—it's magnifique."

Then you think that I won't need to make any decided changes in it, that it's a matter of revision?"

"And mighty little of that," Lillian said with emphasis. "You've doffed the thing here and there as custom does on a first waltz with your pet 'clinches,' but that's really all there is to the revision. You'll be able to weed them out in short order and remember, I stand ready for any call and love rambling or dictating on what have you at any minute you name."

Thanks, Lil," I said gratefully. "I'll call on you never fear. I want to push this through as soon as possible so as to be free to help here if I am needed."

Of course," she said quickly, "that's the thing to do. The sooner you finish it the better. Then you will be ready for old Phil when he appears. And in the interim you can relieve one of us if we need it. How a much needed rest I would be! But we're all pretty tough."

Except Mother Graham and my father. I am [illegible]

MADGE WORKS LATE

Briefly I told her of my conversation with the motherly lady and at the end of it she leaned back in her chair and laughed until the tears stood in her eyes.

"I guess your status [illegible] name, the washwoman," she said and then came up to the park looking for the pole. I have to slip [illegible] to see girl. It's something to put one over on your mother-in-law and when it's such a pretty one as this my congratulations. You are of the elect."

She gave me an affectionate little pat and moved toward the door. "I'll leave you to your job," she said, "and I'll get to tackle mine, that of official errand girl for the whole outfit. Good hunting."

It was a test which remained with me through the rest of the fourth act. With the goal before me of freedom to be of service in the strenuous activities imposed upon the family by our sheltering of the wounded Chinese, I drove, drained through the work in the hours of the day left to me and also worked until long past midnight. Not wishing to disturb anyone in the house at so late an hour, I made up an emergency bed upon the couch hammock in the big screened veranda and prepared to spend the rest of the night there. But I had scarcely settled among my pillows than I heard a familiar voice through the curtain that screened the side of the porch.

SURPRISING NEWS

Mr. Graham," it said hesitatingly.

Yes, Tim." I was suddenly wide awake, although I had found myself falling asleep over my work but a few minutes before.

Mr. Graham told me to come and tell him if everything were quiet and I thought we were to stay over here. But I thought we might be permitted to be down a little while and then get back and then you wouldn't want me to say good night and I rode slowly in and let Mr. Graham have some sleep.

I sat up in my house aghast.

Do you mean to tell me," I demanded, that Mr. Graham has been out here watching over the place?

Oh, Tim, it really was pretty unusual. I thought you knew as much as I or I wouldn't have said a word. Mr. Graham will be awfully mad when he knows I've told you about it."

I made a sudden decision.

You must have to say anything about it, Tim," I said. I must run down for a minute or two and I'm sure Mr. Graham will be here to keep [illegible] the rest of the night."

In the darkness I reached for my silken beach robe and slippers and, tripping only to look my door open toward the house

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Hundreds of boys and girls who joined the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club in the past week will attend the regular meetings tomorrow. These youngsters who attended their first meeting last Saturday were amazed at the amount of entertainment and fun the children have at these meetings.

One little fellow was overheard telling his "pal" just what took place and urging him to join this week. Here's what he was saying:

"Gee, Tommy, you should have been there, they asked my name and address, what Mom and Pop's name was, what school I went to and what day was I born. Then they gave me this swell membership card and this button."

"What's that other card," asked Tom.

"Oh that? Well the manager explained it to me. See this stamp on it, well if I get three more stamps like it between now and May 14 I'll get a ticket good for a free show at the Stanley Theater, Sunday May 15. You gotta join next week Tom, so we can go to the show together.

"But wait until I tell you about the meeting, we sang songs, and a couple of girls danced, and then some little fellow recited a poem, and then we saw a swell pitcher, all about cowboys and Indians. I'm going to ask your mother if she can't come with me next Saturday, and join. Maybe the manager will let us get on the stage and sing that song of ours. Gee, we'll have lots of fun now every Saturday."

Unpopular Laws

Unwillingness of Candidates to Declare in Favor of Prohibition and the Blue Law Is Significant

Opponents of prohibition and the Blue Laws have every reason to be gratified by the attitude of candidates for the Legislature on those subjects, as disclosed by the Sun-Telegraph poll.

A majority of the candidates in Allegheny County, in answer to our questionnaire, said they favored repeal of the Snyder act, repeal of the Sunday legislation of 1794, the substitution of local option in respect to Sunday recreation, and legislation for a hearing by the Public Service Commission before public utility rates could be raised.

There is good ground for hope, therefore, that the Legislature will do something at its next regular session to free Pennsylvania from the evils with which the questionnaire deals.

It is indeed remarkable that out of 129 candidates who have not dodged the issues but have frankly told where they stand, only 11 favor the Snyder act, only 13 approve of the Blue Law, and only five are against the proposed change in the public utility law.

The Sun-Telegraph disagrees with the views of the members of these little minority groups, but we take off our hat to them for their courage in bucking appealing laws that are manifestly unpopular. If those are their principles, they deserve credit for standing by them openly, instead of pussyfooting or straddling.

A State Flower

Judge Musmanno Should Have Something to Say About The Manner of Choosing It

Pennsylvania has a state tree, the hemlock. It has a state bird, the ruffed grouse. But it has no state flower, and is the only state that does not have one.

Surprising as it seems, this is a matter on which the Legislature is sensitive. One might suppose that the members, indifferent to a subject of no great practical importance, would vote perfunctorily for any attractive flower that might be proposed as the state emblem. But it hasn't worked out that way.

Again and again someone desirous of remedying the state's deficiency has nominated a state flower, only to have the proposal pigeon-holed or otherwise rejected.

Pittsburgh clubwomen once recommended the trailing arbutus, against which the objection was raised that it had already been pre-empted by Massachusetts under the name of mayflower.

Pittsburgh school children once favored the blossom of the tulip tree, which it was thought would be peculiarly appropriate because the leaf is the shape of a keystone.

In order to settle the matter in a sensible manner Judge M. A. Musmanno, then a member of the Legislature, introduced in the regular session last year a resolution calling for the appointment of a commission to select the flower. The resolution was passed.

In the ordinary course of affairs Musmanno, the father of the measure, would have been appointed chairman, or at least a member of the commission, and in fact assurance was given that he would be.

For some unexplained reason Speaker C. J. Goodnough put off appointing the commission until last Tuesday, when he named Representatives J. G. Steedle, of Allegheny County; A. J. W. Hutton, of Franklin; Bart Richards, of Lawrence; Mrs. Mary T. Denman, of Westmoreland, and Sidney V. Carmany, of Venango, as members of the commission.

It is a pity that Judge Musmanno is not on the commission, and it is to be hoped that he can yet be appointed to it, or at least given a voice in its affairs. For he had a plan which would have made the work of the commission of real cultural value.

Judge Musmanno had intended to enlist the aid of the public schools, colleges, women's clubs, patriotic, fraternal, civic and trade bodies in the selection of the state flower. He proposed to conduct excursions into the woods and fields to study our wild flowers, their habitats and their claims to consideration.

Under his vigorous and enthusiastic leadership everyone in Pennsylvania would have been made aware of our native floral beauty and appreciative of the charm of our woodlands and meadows.

Another Vote Inquiry

District Attorney Park Is Redeeming His Pledge to Work for Honesty in Elections.

The grand jury, under the direction of District Attorney Andrew T. Park, began yesterday another investigation of election frauds. It is inquiring into the Pittsburgh Registration Commission's charge that about 25 persons in the Thirty-first Ward falsely swore, in applying for registration, that they had had tax receipts but had lost them.

District Attorney Park publicly pledged himself, on the eve of the primary election last year, to use all the resources of his office, in case he were chosen for another term, to prosecute election frauds.

An immense amount of work has been required to fulfill the pledge, but Park has not shirked it.

An Interesting Tour

Washington Bicentennial Can Be Observed by Visiting Nearby Places With Which He was Associated.

The Sunday Sun-Telegraph has called attention in several "motoriogues" in recent weeks to nearby places with which George Washington was in some way associated. Pictures of these historic spots have been printed and directions given for journeying to them by automobile.

The Pittsburgh Motor Club has now published instructions for a 200-mile auto trip on which a number of these places can be seen. The tourist will see, for example, Washington's grist mill at Perryopolis, Gen. Edward Braddock's grave, Fort Necessity, the old Braddock road, and the famous Bushy Run battlefield.

The Motor Club has done a good job in thus inviting people to visit these places; for it is an excellent way in which the Washington Bicentennial can be observed, and should promote interest in local history, and stimulate patriotism.

Thoughts on the Eve Of Battle

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Now that the President has accepted the invitation of the House Economy Committee to co-operate in drastically cutting the cost of government, there is every reason for the taxpayers to hope for some relief. When the tax bill was passed by the House, Ogden Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, announced that it fell far short of raising enough revenue to balance the budget; Speaker Garner replied that it was the expectation of the House that economies could be effected in the executive departments and elsewhere to more than make up the balance. Mr. Mills replied that too much was expected in the way of reducing the expenditures of government; and after one meeting between the President and his aides including Mr. Mills and the House members, it is announced that plans have been agreed upon that will cut the cost somewhere between $160,000,000 and $210,000,000 and that still more cuts are possible and will be effected. Thus it appears that Mr. Mills was a bit too pessimistic.

A gratifying feature of the conference is the apparent absence of politics. This is as it should be. We are dealing now not with the crisis of any party, but with the crisis of a nation, involving all the people of all the parties.

Democratic Leaders Show Great Restraint

Considering the fact that even now we are in the midst of a presidential campaign, it is a tribute to the restraint of the Democratic leaders in the House that, thus far, politics has been subordinated to the country's vital needs. Their opportunities for politics are greater than ever before in generations. The temptation is strong. But in view of the condition of the country, Mr. Rainey announced in the beginning that the plan would be to proceed with the greatest possible dispatch to the consideration of legislation required by the financial and economic situation. Inevitably there have been a few purely partisan speeches, but not many. There have been some delays, but these have grown out of differences transcending party lines on measures having no distinct party significance. The nation's business has come first. Thus the House acted speedily on the moratorium, adding a declaration of intent as to the foreign debts. It speedily passed a tariff act, a practical and possible measure in that it does not change the schedules, does take cognizance of the tariff retaliations of other nations and calls for the negotiation of reciprocal arrangements making for the restoration of foreign trade. It has passed a tax bill which is bi-partisan and not partisan. It has forced action in the executive department on the reduction of the cost of government through the activities of its Committee on Economy. The "lame duck" measure has finally been passed. The injunction bill has been enacted. Seldom has any Congress accomplished more in so short a time.

But no days have been wasted in campaign speeches; this may come after the legislative program needed to meet the national crisis has been finished.

Academic Issues Have No Place Now

By the time Congress is adjourned the campaign will be in full swing. There will be opportunity enough to discuss the Hoover administration and its amazing record of ineptitude thereafter. The politicians do not make the issues. The people and conditions affecting them make the issues. The paramount issue always is that which most deeply concerns the millions of the masses of the people. And this year that is economic conditions and the part played in their creation by the party and the President in power. The man in the street without a job, the small business man pushed over the precipice to ruin, the farmer reduced to desperate straits will not listen to academic issues now. He is concerned with the bread and butter proposition, and he will want to know why we are where we are today. That is the only issue to which he will listen with patience.

Republican Campaign Already Marked Out

The Republican campaign is already marked out, with no escape from it. The Republican convention will be a cut-and-dried affair. With greater reluctance than any party has ever shown in all our history it will nominate the one man who can be nominated. The federal machine will hold a close rein on the convention. The platform will be determined in advance. The convention will be personally conducted. The enthusiasm will be "stage stuff," for real enthusiasm there is none. And the plea to the people will be to vote a "well done, good and faithful servant" to Mr. Hoover. Necessarily the Republicans will have to defend the administration and its fruits and call upon the people to "stand pat" and "let well enough alone." It will be a unique campaign in that they will not mention "a chicken in every pot," or "the elimination of poverty," or "high wages and big dividends," or "prosperity at home and prestige abroad."

But we may be sure that one of the hoary claims of the Republicans will be to the fore again—that the Democratic party is not fit to assume the responsibilities of government.

Tremendous Drift Toward Democracy

Whether that makes any impression on the people will depend on what the Democrats do during the next two and a half months. Just now the people are not impressed. The unprecedented Democratic vote in the Wisconsin primaries, the startling Democratic registration in California, the results of all the congressional elections since 1930 point unmistakably to a tremendous drift toward the Democracy. Were the election held today Mr. Hoover would not have a Chinaman's chance. He will not have such a chance in November unless the Democrats hand it to him on the platter of discord. And in the meantime the strategy of the Republican politicians and press will be to do all within their power to create dangerous dissension within the Democratic ranks.

Democrats Must Watch Their Steps

And what are "dangerous dissensions?" Not conflicting candidacies. With Democratic victory almost a certainty today, it would be remarkable were there not some clashing candidates in the field. All are men of character and capacity. Not one but has the right to aspire to the nomination. In the heat of the pre-convention fight some bitter things will be said; though it seems impossible that as many bitter things will be said as was said between the numerous Republican aspirants for the nomination in 1920.

And in the convention there will be conflicts of opinion on policy, just as in the Republican convention. But with this difference—in the Democratic convention opinion will not be gagged. The actual suppression by force of such men as Nicholas Murray Butler, so brazenly effected in the Kansas City convention in 1928, would not be tolerated in a Democratic convention. A free exchange of opinion will do no harm.

There is just one way in which the Democrats can wreck their chances: by so acting in the next three months as to convince the millions in America who want a change that there are no real differences between the parties and that a change in party will not mean a change in government policy.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Postscripts to Love

The temptation of a woman's life—and the bane of a man's—is her passion for POSTSCRIPTS. Postscripts to letters; postscripts to love—postscripts to youth!

It takes a strong-minded woman to refrain from adding a postscript to a letter when she has said all that should be said and one more word would spoil it. And a stronger-minded one to refrain from adding a postscript to a love affair or a lover's quarrel.

* * *

When it comes to the parting of the ways after love or even after a brief spring romance, the clinging vine develops an awful clutch. All her good-byes are au revoirs. And all her farewells are "auf wiedersehens!"

She will tell a man Goodbye forever tonight and tomorrow morning she will call him up before breakfast to tell him that he forgot his umbrella. Or to find out if he's coming to dinner. Or just to tell him Goodbye forever all over again.

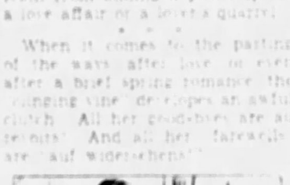
Somehow a woman cannot accept finality. She cannot believe that anything so beautiful and vital as love can possibly die. She keeps on going back and trying to dig it up again or to revive it with a pulmotor. She just can't let it ALONE. And that is where she makes her fatal mistake.



Once love is dead, it can't be resuscitated. But many an expiring love would catch its breath and come back to life if a woman would only say GOODBYE and mean it, instead of "for the present" moment. And then stick TO it.

The error of the average female consists in hanging on and waiting for love to die. When that tired look begins to creep into a man's eyes and that bored note into his voice, it is time to go out of his life forever—and STAY out.

* * *

Nothing so lowers a woman's stock in a man's eyes as her weakness in recalling him back after she has given him his congé. Nothing so bores him as to be "forgiven," when all he wanted was to be FORGOTTEN.

* * *

When you come to the end of a letter, to the end of youth or to the end of a love affair, sign OFF and don't add a POSTSCRIPT. Say adieu, adieu, goodbye, farewell—but never au revoir!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 15.—Thought's while strolling: Jay C. Flippen could hide a midget in his hair. White Andrew Toombes another zoological has to paint his on. But for the slickest hair combs take a peek at Jack Whiting. They seem to be Hair Day along the Rialto.

O-yes Grace Moore has gone Alpine. Dental sign: We fix teeth at your own price. Tom Gerschick's post-carding from the South Seas. That glared snavely of Basil Rathbone. Louis A. Seagrave, a Seattle Wash. boy who made good in the city Broadways, wittiest gagster, Johnny Starkey.

What became of Libby Holman. The hard drinking old lovers along Sixth avenue. And the tank four rehearsals in gloomy Bryant Hall. A favorite person is Ben Holtzman, a Jane Cowl's expressive hands. Bloor Schlippes's name carried a quick fall and slide in sixty days.

Then there's Errington Sandringham Kipp who suggests a fall down stairs. Norman Lindsay, who can write books and paint pictures too. Anyway the depression has put a stop to flivvering and building plants. Nothing so serene as an old oak velveted in moss.

I'll keep on until I butt out in a quatrain. Pierre Carter, in the navy has the wistful look of a poet. Everybody seems to be going a-sea for that purpose. Gertrude Atherton. Grenville Kleiser window-shopping. Somehow I have a prickly premonition the worst is over.

Every time I see George Olsen smile I want to hot foot to a dentist. Still that big wisdom stump is carrying on. Like a noble pine it's at the top. Secret stuff. Will Rogers was christened William Penn Adair. Why Willie! Those messenger boys who flit through traffic like chipmunks.

Troupers sunning in front of agencies. Visiting and widowed school teachers gazing at lunatic spires. William Beebe always looks a bit starved. Must look up that word prawn. Heard it twice this week. Finnan haddie day at the ranch house. And will I inhale a hatful!

The enchanting Mrs. Fiske it appears was supersensitive in the sunset of her glamorous life to meeting the public. While years sat lightly, there was a fixed expression of weariness she could not shake off. So she sought cloister of a devoted friend's home to fade quietly out of the picture. It was this attitude that inspired her dying wish not to have a public funeral and to have her mortal remains cremated at once. Most gallant of troupers she wanted her audiences to remember her in the sheen of the spotlight.

A rich shirtmaker from up state, a little dishevelled from an all night train ride, registered at one of the ornate inns. Tairling the registering card around one of those superior clerks, who go monocle for no reason whatever, inquired: "What is your business, sir?" Without batting an eye the grounding snapped: "Shirts. I turn out those dollar ones you wear."

* * *

But the snobbiest of all humans to my notion is one of those museum-faced imported butlers who always walk as though carrying a heavy tray. The other night I ran into a welcome relief. He was black as an ace of spades and full of grins. Carried away with his cordiality I exclaimed: "Good evening, how are you?" And he came right back with: "I se well, how is you all?" If there hadn't been so many around I think Uncle Enoch and I would have waltzed about in an old-fashioned waltz.

Frances Halliday was a hoyden-ish freckled-faced, red-headed tyke whose pig tails I used to yank on our maple lined Court street block in Gallipolis. Today she's a beautiful actress understudying a musical comedy star, and when that luminary became ill the other day, Frances, according to Rialto reports, acquitted herself so creditably in the role she "stopped the show." Vive le Gallipolis!

* * *

Speaking of hirsute adornment can you hurdle it? as we were higher up the columnar ladder, on Broadway a toupee is a "rug."

* * *

Telegram: "You poor puddle-jumper, the way you glared at me at the Palace Sunday night one might suppose my hiccup annoyed you."

It didn't bother me, but Paul Whiteman said you flatted it.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Do I worry? Of course I worry. Who doesn't? Worry is as natural as breathing.

As a matter of fact, worry is very much like breathing. Our lungs pumping along make us breathe. Our glands pumping along make us worry, send fear or anger or excitement racing through our veins.

Worry was not only natural but necessary when man first walked in caves with a thousand violent deaths stalking and prowling outside his door. Worry made man wakeful, quick, deft; made him watch his step and avoid shadows. Primitive man wouldn't have lasted long if he hadn't worried plenty.

And now here we are, still worrying, but the rest of the picture has changed.

Man is no longer the helpless thing he once was. Worry is no longer the helpful thing it was. Man can largely control his life and himself. If he still gives way to that old, jungle panic of fear, he raises Cain for himself and everyone connected with him.

Worry was good medicine in 10,000 B. C. Worry is bad medicine in 1932 A. D. Worry safeguarded primitive life. Worry both muddles and wastes modern life if you give way to worry. Worry must be stopped, but how?

Worry can't be stopped by saying it's unnatural, for it isn't, or by saying there's no reason to fear, for there is. Nor can we stop worrying by covering it up with pretty gestures. None of these things will cure that madness in the blood which we call worry. That madness in the blood can only be cured by coolness in the brain.

A MAN CAN CHOOSE NOT TO WORRY.

Consider your own anxious self, Mac. You can say:

"Yes, I'm filled with the makings of fear. That's a hangover from my save-a-days. In just the same way I'm filled with the makings of murder and theft and other forms of savage, stupid violence.

"And there are definite reasons for fear, just as definite reasons for fear today as there were 50,000 years ago.

"BUT I HAVE SOMETHING TODAY THAT PEOPLE DIDN'T HAVE 50,000 YEARS AGO. I HAVE THE POWER OF CHOICE IN ME. THE POWER TO WEIGH AND JUDGE EXPERIENCES TO DECIDE AND CONTROL MY OWN ACTIONS.

"I can, and I should, realize the dangers of modern life, but I can also realize the advantages and safeguards of modern life.

"FOR EVERY REASON WHICH I HAVE TO BE AFRAID, I HAVE ALSO A REASON TO BE SURE. AND I CAN DELIBERATELY CHOOSE WHICH REASON I WILL THINK ABOUT—THE REASON FOR FEAR OR THE REASON FOR CONFIDENCE.

"For instance, every day I worry frightfully lest my little girl may not come safely home from school. I have taken all reasonable precautions, of course, but still I worry. I think of automobiles, kidnapers, vicious strangers, fires, a thousand perils. Every day I think of these things until I'm sick with fear.

"Does this daily spasm of terror help me? To be perfectly honest, it doesn't.

"Yet I could stop it. I have the power. Instead of choosing to think about dreadful things I can think about delightful things. Instead of thinking how dangerous it is for my little girl to live in this swift, powerful age, I can think how lucky it is.

"For life—what we make it. Life is as we choose to take it."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELI

A Sailor's Life

A shoemaker's life is his leather,
His lasts, his pegs and awl,
Through the gold of the spring-time weather,
Through winter, summer and fall.

A collier's life is a black pit,
A shaft that is straight and deep,
A candle gleam through the darkness
And limbs too tired for sleep.

But a sailor's life is the ocean,
And ever, through toil and grime,
The voice of the sea is in his ear

A welter of blackening blood,
But a sailor's life is the salt wind
And the mighty tide at flood.

A painter's life is his canvas,
And a poet's life is a word;
But a sailor's life is the open
By God's own pulses stirred!
